

MEXICAN REVOLUTION IS A GENUINE WAR

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE HARD WORK TO MOVE TROOPS TO DISCONTINUED REGIONS.

MORE STATES REVOLT

Huerta and Diaz Must Force Issue at Once to Prevent General Uprising Through North and South.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

El Paso, March 12.—If the provisional government at Mexico City intends to rush troops to subdue the anti-Huerta uprising in Sonora, the western border state, it must be done either by landing federal forces at some California gulf port, or moving them from Chihuahua, by the recent declaration of Inez Salazar, ex-rebel general, that he will not accept Huerta espousing instead the revolutionary program of Vasquez Gomez. The conditions about Parral and other threatening circumstances in Chihuahua make it appear that General Rabago's force of from 2,000 to 3,000 federals cannot move far from the vicinity of Chihuahua City.

While Chihuahua, the state which promoted Madero's revolution, remains comparatively quiet, this is credited by many as resulting largely from revolutionary fatigue. Wearied by the protracted insurrection which continued in Chihuahua, even after Madero's victory, the ex-rebels themselves appear unwilling to continue their habit of contesting the national government. Yet the old Madero element is strong in the state and in many ways has disregarded the Huerta regime.

Travelers arriving here today from the west coast reported there was no federal force in Sonora or Simola to move against Hermosillo. The Sonora state capital is held by more than 2,000 constitutionalists backing up the stand of the state officials. They have fortified the town and possess five machine guns.

Americans just returned from Guaymas and points to the south state that at the Sonora gulf there are not more than 200 Huerta soldiers, while Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa, and Mazatlan, the Pacific coast port in the same state, hold only about 300 federals each. All the interior towns are still smaller garrisons, all of which combined could not make a force the tourists estimate, to enter northern Sonora. Nearly every province of Sonora has risen to the call of "state rights" to oust the Huerta soldiers.

Troops Start Today.

Mexico City, March 12.—Two thousand followers of Carranza, the rebel governor of Coahuila, are surrounded in the vicinity of Lomatitos by five hundred federals, according to a dispatch from the war department today and an engagement is expected within a few hours. Generals Anbert, Blazquez, Anaya, and Dazilla, in command of the federal forces, are expected to arrive in the outskirts of Lomatitos early today.

A dozen troops trains left Mexico City for the north this morning. Most of the troops went in the direction of Sonora. They were in detachments with a full battalion of the seventh infantry, machine gun company, battery of artillery with heavy guns and an additional force of 3,000 regulars is expected to leave this city for Sonora and by Saturday the government hopes to concentrate a total of 10,000 men here.

Simultaneously with the departure of this army for the north the first advance movement of the troops took place into the country which has hitherto been overrun by the followers of Zapata. The detachments included troops under Col. Manuel Jasso and Ptasana and 500 soldiers under Gen. Javier de Queblo and 300 men under Gen. Heino Aguilar. From the federal capital the three columns will advance and operations will be carried out with the greatest energy.

The cutting of communication between Hermosillo the capital of the state of Sonora and the seaport of Guaymas on the gulf of California has given rise to much anxiety in Guaymas according to dispatch received here.

Reports indicate that rebels numbering 1500 are fortified in the neighborhood. They are said to be in possession of four rapid fire field guns. Guaymas has a garrison of 400 federal troops.

The Mexican gunboat Tampico and General Guerrero are stationed there as well as the American armored cruiser Colorado. A bill has been prepared for the chamber of deputies providing for the holding of a presidential election in July. Provisional President Huerta is said to have agreed to this date.

Second Revolt.

Nogales, Ariz., March 12.—The states of Sinaloa, south of Sonora has revolted officially against Huerta's national government and named a provisional governor according to reports of persons arriving here today from Hermosillo. They also report that the Yaqui Indians of Sonora have volunteered to assist the insurgents.

Desert Agua Prieta.

Douglas, Ariz., March 12.—General Ojeda and 450 men evacuated Agua Prieta at 3 o'clock today and began an overland march west to Nogales where Colonel Kostelitzky's rural police are threatened with attack. Each man carried all the arms and ammunition possible. The rest of the garrison equipment, surplus arms and ammunition was left packed on box cars.

El Paso, March 12.—Advices received here today said rebels had burned sixteen railroad bridges south of Chihuahua city and cut all rail and wire communication from that point south.

Was Expected.

Washington, March 12.—The new uprising in Sinaloa confirms the views of general staff officers who have been expecting an extension of the so-called constitutional rebellion to that section of Mexico. It was because of apprehension on that score that the decision was reached to keep Rear Admiral Sutherland on his flagship Colorado on the west coast for it is assumed that the insurgents soon will be looking for a port on the gulf of California to afford easy means of procuring arms and ammunition without risk of violation of the neutrality laws on the border.

Some rumors in Guerrero have revolted according to the state department reports today. The south of Mexico otherwise seems quiet. Expert military opinion is that because a concentration of the rebellion in the northwest section the Huerta government will find it easier to deal with it than in the case of the Madero revolution when the whole of Mexico was honeycombed with revolution.

REPORT JUDICIARY BILLS TO ASSEMBLY

Nearly a Score of Measures Included With Recommendation for Several Including a Rosa Bill.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 12.—Nearly a score of bills were reported back to the assembly this morning from the committee on judiciary. Among the measures reported favorably was the Hurlbut bill providing for security for costs.

Justice courts and placing a limitation upon the same; the Mahon bill to increase the jurisdiction of the municipal court of Langlade county; the bill providing that it is not necessary to fix the time of larceny, the Mahon bill requiring that county judges in counties having over 25,000 population shall be lawyers; the I. N. Stewart bill providing that testimony given in ex-cise litigation shall not be used in another proceeding against the witness and the Rosa bill increasing the amount that a widow and dependent children may receive from an estate, where the estate is not over $2,000. The committee reported for indefinite postponement the Frederick bill providing that any wife may start suit against her husband for support and maintenance without beginning a divorce action.

Another bill by Assemblyman Hurlbut, reported for passage, clarifies the present statute regarding the fees to be paid witnesses in attendance at trials. The present laws on the subject are conflicting.

OXFORD IS SLIGHTLY FAVORED AS WINNER

Oxford and Cambridge Crews Have Taken Final Practice Spins Over Course on Thames.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, March 12.—The annual boat race between the crews of Oxford and Cambridge universities will take place tomorrow and interest in the great aquatic event is as keen as ever. The contest, as in previous years, will be rowed over the Thames course from Mortlake to Putney.

Both crews took their final practice spins this morning and the unanimous opinion of the critics was that both crews are superior to those of last year. The odds are slightly in favor of Oxford, though everyone agrees that it is likely to be a close contest. If the water is rough the loss of coin for choice of stations may decide the race.

The race will be the seventieth in the series of annual contests between the Oxford and Cambridge crews. Of the total Oxford has won 38 and Cambridge 30. In 1877 the contest resulted in a dead heat. The best record for the distance (about four and one-quarter miles) is 18 minutes and 29 seconds, which was made by the Oxford crew two years ago.

TELLS PITIFUL TALE OF WIFE DESERTION

Chicago Minister Relates How Wife Deserted Him For the Society Burglar.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 12.—Deserted by his wife and struggling to keep his five children together, Rev. Lester K. Clarkson, a mission worker of this city, today told of how the woman left the confided to Owen W. Conn, the confederate burglar now under arrest in San Francisco.

It was a love letter intercepted by the clergyman written by Conn when he was serving a term in the penitentiary at Waupun, Wisconsin, for a robbery committed in Milwaukee, which first convinced Mr. Clarkson of his wife's infidelity. The letter was moderate in tone and regrets for the necessity of this moderation was expressed. Reference was made in the letter to the deseculation of some other woman whose name was not mentioned. "Mable" Mrs. Clarkson, was thanked for pair of slippers which she had sent to the writer at the prison.

Clarkson wrote to Conn and asked him to leave Mrs. Clarkson alone. To this letter Conn replied that his intentions were perfectly honorable.

Clarkson said he married the woman when she was 13 years of age. She met Conn while acting as a jail missionary and her devotion to him developed from her efforts to reform him according to the husband.

STREET CAR CRASHES INTO HOUSE, KILLING ONE

Cincinnati, O., March 12.—Garret Coons, was killed and eight other persons severely injured today when a College Hill street car outbound from the city jumped the track and crashed into an apartment house at the corner of Ludlow avenue.

SEEKS TO ENFORCE NEW PUBLICITY LAW

Postmaster General Burleson Will Require Newspapers to Fulfill Law's Provisions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 12.—Unless the supreme court restrains Postmaster General Burleson from enforcing the newspaper publicity law as it was asked to do yesterday, he will immediately do so regardless of an agreement by former Postmaster General Hitchcock to withhold action pending a determination of its constitutionality. Mr. Burleson so announced today.

Approximately 91 per cent of the publications affected have filed their reports with the postmaster general and otherwise have complied with the law. The delinquents constitute about 9 per cent and generally include the larger daily newspapers in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities. The number of publishers who have not filed their reports, due last October, is about 150.

MORGAN MAY APPEAR IN COAL LAND CASE

Judge Landis May Issue Subpoena for American Financier Now Traveling in Europe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 12.—J. Pierpont Morgan may probably be called as witness in the Alaska coal land fraud cases which are on trial here before Judge Landis in the United States district court. Although Morgan now is abroad Judge Landis offered to have a subpoena issued for him at once if the defense believed his testimony would be material.

"Not at this time," replied Attorney Fink, "unless the government desires to call Mr. Morgan."

VACCINATE EMPLOYEES OF WAR DEPARTMENT

Secretary Garrison First to Bare Arm Following Outbreak of Epidemic.

Washington, March 12.—Secretary Garrison was the first to bare his arm for vaccination today under a general order for the inoculation of all employees in his department in the state, war and navy buildings because of two cases of small pox among war department employees. About 1,000 persons were affected by today's order.

MERCHANTS STUDYING MINIMUM WAGE SCALE

Proprietors of Large Chicago Retail Stores Make Investigations As Result of Vice Probe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 12.—A careful study of the probable effect of establishing among themselves a minimum wage scale for women is being made by the big retail merchants of this city, it was learned today, following the recent session of the state vice commission. Later a formal meeting will be held by the merchants, at which members of the commission will be present.

DIES JUST BEFORE DECISION IS GIVEN

Noted La Crosse Reformer Passes Away an Hour Before Supreme Court Decides Case in His Favor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Wis., March 12.—An hour and a half after death from blood poisoning claimed George Marvin, noted reformer, the supreme court handed down the decision sustaining Mr. Marvin in a fight begun two years ago then in the common council when he opposed granting a saloon license to Olaf Larson, claiming that the granting of it in the new location was in violation of the law. The matter was taken into the circuit court and the reformer lost, but he carried the case to the supreme court. For five years Marvin has been a prominent figure in the common council and was feared by the lawless element in the city. His life was thrice threatened.

VISITS SICK DAUGHTER; IS TAKEN ILL AND DIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowish, Wis., March 12.—Karl Schadeburg, a Cato farmer, who came here to be near his daughter, who is a patient at the hospital, was suddenly stricken with pneumonia and died yesterday. He is a civil war veteran, having been in the battle of Bull Run, narrowly escaped having his leg cut off by a shot which passed over the front of his leg between the knee and thigh and left a groove half an inch deep in the flesh which never completely healed. He has been a resident of this state since 1870.

FOUR MEN SUFFOCATED BECAUSE OF GAS LEAK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Nanton, Alberta, March 12.—Four employees of the Western Canada Natural Gas Company of Calgary are dead here, having been suffocated while repairing a leak in one of the pipes of the plant. The dead are: J. M. Bailey, foreman, Elmer Bailey, Thomas Rankin and J. T. Bailey. Several others had narrow escapes and are now in a serious condition.

TO ARGUE SUFFRAGE BILL IN ASSEMBLY

Measures Given Hearing Before Senate Committee Tuesday to be Threshed on Floor of House.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 12.—The hearing on the woman's suffrage bill before the senate committee yesterday will be followed by a general hearing tonight in the assembly chamber. The hearing yesterday indicated the determination of the women to have this question resubmitted to the people. Both the Glenn bill in the senate and the Axel Johnson bill in the house provide for a submission of the subject in 1914. At yesterday's meeting those appearing in favor of suffrage were: Miss Ada James of Richmond Center, president of the Wisconsin league; Mrs. W. G. Bleyer and Miss Margaret Schaffner of Madison. Robert Wild of Milwaukee, representing the German American Alliance, was the only speaker to oppose the measure.

Miss James Talks.

The statistical facts in favor of women's suffrage were presented by Miss James. She stated that the movement was endorsed by the Federal Women's clubs; the state teachers' association, the farmers' grange and the federation of labor. As to the cost to the state for submitting the question Miss James declared that it would not exceed the cost of three of the new brass cuspidors in the new state capital building. During the hearing Miss James made the charge that the corrupt practice act had been openly violated by some who were opposed to the equal suffrage idea. Senator Ackley asked whether in the face of such an overwhelming defeat it would not be well to postpone the presentation of the issue until four years from now.

Educational Campaign.

This question was answered by Miss Schaffner who declared that it was best to keep up this educational campaign by having something to go direct to the voters upon which an issue could be discussed.

Mr. Wild pointed out that out of a vote of 135,000, a majority of 92,000 was cast against suffrage. He said the people had answered the question emphatically and there was no use of further discussing the question.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF ADMIRAL EATON

Autopsy Ordered at Norwell, Mass. Is Surrounded by Some Mystery.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Norwell, Mass., March 12.—It became known today that investigation was begun a few hours after the sudden death last Saturday of Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, U. S. N., retired. An autopsy was followed by the announcement today that the death was due to inflammation of the stomach. The sheriff added: "I have nothing to say at this time except that an investigation is being made."

Admiral Eaton was taken ill last Friday and died the next day. He was 65 years old and had lived on a farm here since his retirement.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD NAME STATE OFFICERS

Matter of Credentials Causes Stormy Session of Lodge at Oshkosh.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oshkosh, Wis., March 12.—The Wisconsin jurisdiction of the Woodmen of the World in state convention held here today for the following officers: Junior post head council, Philip Kiehl, head council, William T. Moss, head advisor, H. Baddenhead, head clerk, C. E. Kruger, head escort, J. T. Willard, head watchman, Thomas Kelly, board of head managers, P. S. Pauley, chairman, Frank T. Loring, J. B. Hubbard, William Hoppe, and E. Wisheer.

The matter of credentials created a stormy scene at the convention yesterday afternoon. All of the officers of the old jurisdiction were unseated as delegates and new officers were elected to serve two years.

CAN HOLD FORTRESS BUT ONE WEEK MORE

Turkish Commander at Adrianople Said to Have Sent Final Message to Porte Urging for Peace.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Constantinople, March 12.—A despairing cry of "I can hold out only a week longer," was sent in cipher by wireless today from Shukri Pasha, the Turkish commander of Adrianople to his superior officers here, according to unofficial reports today.

Shukri, who has held out for many months against the hundreds of siege guns of the Bulgarians and Serbians, is said to have informed the porte in his message that all the supplies of food and ammunition. There is much sickness, especially scurvy and intestinal disorders, which are ravaging the ranks of the defenders.

The commander, who has offered such a long and gallant defense, urges that either peace negotiations be hastened or that an immediate attempt to relieve the city be undertaken from the Tchatalja lines.

The Turkish ministry is divided in opinion and will have difficulty in reaching any solution of the problem raised by the commander of the besieged fortress.

Expected Fall.

London, March 12.—It is expected in Sofia that the Turkish fortress of Adrianople will be entered today by the Bulgarian and Serbian besiegers. A private message states that the Bulgarian troops today captured Heretaria, one of the "key forts" and took 420 prisoners. The Turks resisted stubbornly.

Accept Mediation.

Belgrade, March 12.—The allied Balkan nations have agreed to accept the mediation of the powers, according to an official announcement today. The consent of the allies is contingent, however, on the agreement of Turkey to surrender the fortress of Adrianople and Scutari and the islands in the Aegean Sea and also to pay a war indemnity.

Postal Authorities Hold Illinois Man For Alleged Swindler of $200 From Sheboygan Resident.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sheboygan, March 12.—Frank Vizie, an Austrian, has been arrested in Illinois by United States Postal authorities for alleged swindling of Antoine Fabec's name, rearing a post office box in Fabec's name and sending to an Austrian bank for money Fabec had deposited there. That was a year ago. Since that time Vizie married a widow worth $50,000 and has been living in ease on a large farm in Illinois. He recently took alarm and sent a draft for $204 here, but he has been arrested and placed under bail of $3000.

Admiral Gozzo Meets Minister of Marines and Boxes His Ears on Public Street.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rome, Italy, March 12.—A street fight with fists between Admiral Catolico, the Italian minister of marines and Admiral Gozzo, recently retired from the Italian navy, caused a great sensation here today.

Admiral Gozzo, meeting the minister of marines on the street, went straight up to him and boxed his ears. Admiral Catolico replied energetically to the assault and a rough and tumble conflict continued until the combatants were separated by bystanders and Admiral Gozzo was arrested. Gozzo's grievance, it is said, was the minister's act in placing him on the retired list.

WILSON'S ATTITUDE IS SATISFACTORY

President's Stand on United States Policy As to American Republics Pleases Washington.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 12.—President Wilson's statement of the attitude of the present administration toward Latin-American affairs was received by the Central and South American diplomats here in a friendly spirit which was voted in the declaration. The consensus of opinion among them was one of approval that the policy of his administration would be to discountenance lawless revolutions and at the same time to encourage the growth of friendly relations. President Wilson's statement received close study at the hands of members of the senate and house. The majority of members of the senate and house committees on foreign affairs expressed general approval of the president's attitude.

The president today received a formal cablegram from the mayor of Carlisle, England, expressing in behalf of the town council the hearty congratulations on his assumption of the presidency. It was in Carlisle that President Wilson's grandfather was born. The president sent a cablegram of appreciation.

Representative Oscar Underwood, the democratic leader today, to postpone the date of the extra session of congress at least one week. As a result of Mr. Underwood's suggestion the president had recently fixed upon April 1. Mr. Underwood today advised the president that the ways and means committee would require more time in preparing the new tariff bills. Inasmuch as Mr. Wilson had said that he would be guided by the council of house leaders it was regarded as practically certain that the new congress would not convene before April 7th or 8th.

It was said at the White House, unofficially, that George W. Guthrie, democratic state chairman for Pennsylvania, and a former mayor of Pittsburgh, was a likely appointee for a diplomatic post. Representative A. Mitchell Palmer has been urging Mr. Guthrie's appointment as ambassador to Italy. It was also stated at the White House that word from Richard Olney as to whether he would accept the ambassadorship to Great Britain, was not expected for several days. It was understood that he was giving the appointment careful consideration.

DANIELS HAS REALLY MADE CONFESSION

Head of the Alleged Arson Trust Gave Details of His Business and Associates.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 12.—The report that John Daniels, alleged to have been the chief of the so-called arson trust had made a confession was confirmed today by first assistant state's attorney, Frank Johnston, according to whom Daniels named forty members of the ring including the names of several men "higher up." Daniels admitted that he had set more than twenty fires in Chicago.

The confession is said to be even more startling than that recently made by Benjamin Fink, who confessed complicity in 100 incendiary fires. An aggregate of $50,000 in insurance was collected from the Daniels fires. At least forty warrants for business men, public fire insurance adjusters and actual incendiaries named by Daniels will be sworn out late today or tomorrow. The confession was made after a seven hour inquisition. "The ramifications of the trust as described by Daniels are almost beyond belief," said Johnston. "The gang seems to have worked in almost every state in the middle west. Arson was a business with them and it was hardly organized on a scientific basis." Daniels and Fink were the chiefs of the fire bugs although they did not belong to the same gang. Both men say they do not know each other except by reputation.

Daniels' deeds cover a period of 15 years according to Johnston.

DRUGLESS DOCTORS CLASH AT HEARING; HIT MEDICAL TRUST

Chiropractors and Osteopaths in Spite of Discussion Before Assembly Committee—Score Medical Profession.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 12.—The bill for a board of drugless practitioners for the regulation of the chiropractic profession was cause for a spirited discussion before the committee on public welfare of the assembly yesterday afternoon. The chiropractic operators strongly backed the bill, and it was opposed by the osteopaths, who maintained the osteopathic profession is now under sufficient regulatory supervision. The medical profession, through Dr. A. S. Loevenhart of the University of Wisconsin, also opposed the plan.

Attacks Medical Trust.

Attorney A. B. Goodrick of Antigo, speaking for the chiropractors, attacked the medical profession as "the biggest trust in the world." Having the state law behind him, he said it was this a legalized trust over all medical professions was charged with opposing all advances in the crusade for alleviating suffering through means not adopted by their own members. He referred sarcastically to an alleged "halo of sanctity" around the medical profession. He denied that chiropractors need a knowledge of chemistry in the diagnosis of certain ailments.

Paul Von de Schoeppe, an Antigo chiropractor, challenged the medical men to beat the drugless healers by open competition to prove whether there was no merit in the spinal adjustment system.

Curkeet for Osteopaths.

Attorney W. R. Curkeet of Madison, representing the osteopaths, discounted the charge that the medical profession exercised a power over schools for the curing of disease, and asserted that the right of ministering to the sick is one that cannot be too strongly regulated by law. To allow a man out of a chiropractic school for three months to undertake the restoration of patients to health without knowledge of drugs or surgery was called a downward step which has no justification.

Dr. F. M. Olyn of Oshkosh objected to placing the medical profession, which requires long years of study of chemistry and drugs, on a level with the drugless healers with whom a few months' practice is enough to give them legal standing.

Further hearing of this bill will be given next week.

To Protect Optometrists.

With a plea that the practice of optometry in Wisconsin be placed on a standardized basis, where the honest practitioner may be protected and the fake "eye-doctors" driven out, a delegation of leading optometrists of the state appeared before the assembly committee on public welfare yesterday afternoon. The arguments were on the Nodman bill for a board of examiners who "shall give examinations and issue licenses for those qualified to act as opticians."

The bill was supported by Charles D. Vaughn of Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Association of Optometrists, Peter Scholler of Hancock, Mich., the first president of the Michigan state board of examiners of optometrists; T. H. Scholler, Janesville; A. A. Lieck, Antigo; H. McEwan, Fond du Lac; J. H. Schafer, Milwaukee, and C. C. Evenson, La Crosse. Dr. W. T. Searles of Sparta spoke briefly in opposition.

To Crowd Out Fakers.

"This bill will raise the standard of the optical profession in this state to that fixed for other professions, medical, dental, osteopathy, and others," declared Mr. Scholler, the Michigan official. "It will not interfere with anyone engaged in an honest business in this state, but it will crowd out those fakers, grafters and incompetent 'eye-doctors' who prey upon a gullible public with the sale of glasses made of window glass."

Mr. Scholler quoted many governors in strong commendation of similar laws in their states, twenty-seven of which, he said, have such boards. Secretary Vaughn said that the business of selling worthless glasses has grown to large proportions in this state, and that wrongly fitted glasses may permanently injure the sight.

Mr. Evenson called attention to the action of medical bodies in introducing courses in optometry in their colleges, and referred to the awarding last year for the first time in this country of the degree of doctor of ophthalmology by the University of Colorado. Writings of prominent optically qualified eye specialists were quoted to the effect, it was stated, that diagnosis of errors of refraction and classes treatment has been made a farce through the custom of students to do their work in a different way through inexact methods followed in the practice of ophthalmology.

PLUMBERS' MEETING BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Master Plumbers' Association to Hold Their Next Meeting at Madison in Month of May.

Madison will be the next place of meeting for the Southern Wisconsin Master Plumbers' association, according to a decision made at their meeting at the city hall yesterday afternoon. This meeting will be held some time in the month of May, it being the practice to hold regular sessions at sixty day intervals.

The problem of reducing overhead expense was the topic discussed at yesterday's meeting and Mr. W. E. Clow of W. E. Clow & Son, Chicago, delivered the principal address, and introduced the members to the Clow Bulletin, a monthly publication which is mailed free to the plumbers on request. The bulletin, he informed them, contains many valuable suggestions, and a careful perusal of each issue would give the key of solution for many vexing problems that arise in the conducting of the trade.

Three members of the Wisconsin Master Steam-fitters, Messrs. Gessler, Meadows, and Kaufman, met with the plumbers. They are not affiliated with the plumbers' organization but have many interests in common with them and are in a position to offer valuable suggestions. The members of the southern part of the state, were present at the meeting of the association yesterday.

JANESVILLE CHAPTER OF D. A. R. MEETING

Meeting Held at Residence of Mrs. C. S. Jackson on Tuesday Afternoon.

On Tuesday afternoon the Janesville Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met with Mrs. C. S. Jackson at her home on South East street. Mrs. George Suberland read a most interesting paper which dealt with the history of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Wisconsin and Mrs. S. M. Smith gave readings from old colonial love letters written from Deerfield, Mass. The Star Spangled Banner was delightfully illustrated by a coterie of young girls from the Adams school.

ROOF IS SET ON FIRE BY OVERHEATED CHIMNEY

Department Called to Home of John Connelly, 509 South High Street—This Morning.

Fire started in the roof of a lean-to addition to the home of John Connelly, 509 South High street between nine and nine-thirty o'clock this morning, and the fire department responded to a silent alarm. Four members of the department went out in Chief Klein's automobile and had the fire extinguished with chemicals before the horse-drawn apparatus arrived. The timely arrival of the firemen prevented the blaze from being communicated to the main part of the house as was threatened. The damage to the house, which is owned by James Connelly, is estimated at $25.

MANUAL TRAINING STUDENTS INSPECT THE MACHINE SHOPS

The sophomore manual training students of the high school were put through a test at the forgo and found dry departments of the Janesville Machine Company on Tuesday. The work was interesting and the students were given much information regarding this branch of the manual training course. Supt. Smith of the Machine Company and the foreman of the foundry department spent about one hour each in questioning the students and explaining to them the various departments. Prof. Conlan was much pleased with the demonstration.

NAME THREE YOUNG WOMEN IN EXTEMPORE CONTEST

A very close semi-final extempore contest was held yesterday at the high school and the four were chosen by the judges to represent the school in the final contest to be held probably the first week in April. They are: Margaret Denning, Victor Henning, Mary Cronin, and Olive Reynolds. Together with this contest, the oratorical, declamatory and poetry contests will be held. Twelve students spoke yesterday and the contest was watched with intense interest. The judges were Miss Turner of the State School for the Blind, Rev. W. A. Johnson of the Norwegian church, and Prof. P. J. Lowth of the Rock county training school.

ART LEAGUE WILL HEAR SOME INTERESTING PAPERS

The Art League will hold a meeting on Thursday afternoon at Library hall. The program for the afternoon will be on the subject of "Portrait Painters." The first number will be on "Ellen Emmett," given by Mrs. Augusta Ingersoll; "Cecilia Beaux," by Mrs. Walter Helms; "Lydia Field Emmett," by Mrs. R. J. Inver; "Martha Baker," by Miss Ida Harris; "Harriet Blackstone," by Mrs. A. P. Hall. Current events will close the afternoon.

MISSION THANK OFFERING AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Woman's Missionary societies of the Congregational church will hold their annual home mission thank offering Thursday afternoon at three o'clock in the church parlors. Mrs. W. S. Jeffrie will have charge of the program. There will be an Easter responsive service and special music. A little playlet entitled "If They Only

THROUGH MILWAUKEE TRAIN POSSIBILITY

Northwestern Railway Seeks to Improve Service on Line Between Janesville and Fond du Lac.

A new through train to Milwaukee leaving Janesville at about ten o'clock, and returning at about 7:30 o'clock is one of the possibilities that many result from an effort of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway to improve the passenger service on the line between this city and Fond du Lac. A representative of the Northwestern railway has been canvassing the cities on this line, interviewing citizens, and receiving suggestions as to what changes might be made that would result in the greatest good to the greatest number. Out of the different requests that have been made it is probable that one of the three proposed trains will be added. The through train to Milwaukee, just mentioned, would go by way of Jefferson Junction, arriving in Milwaukee about 1 p. m., and leaving at five o'clock.

Other trains proposed are a shuttle service between Janesville and Watertown, providing close connections with trains to the east and west through Jefferson Junction, and a north-bound night train to Fond du Lac, making connections there with trains to Green Bay, Oshkosh, Appleton and Ashland. The shuttle train suggested would leave Watertown sufficiently early to connect with the train going west from the Junction at 6:42, and would permit the residents of Johnson's Creek to get a train to Milwaukee in the morning without getting up before daylight as is necessary at present.

The decision of what will be done to improve the service rests with the railway commission, before whom the matter has been laid, and will also depend upon the strength of the showing made in support of the proposed change, and the practicability of adjusting the service to its requirements.

SHOWMEN GATHER FOR LEAGUE CIRCUS MEET

D. W. Watt Will Represent Janesville at Big Gathering of Circus Folk in Chicago.

Prominent showmen of the world are gathering for an entertainment and banquet to be held at the Hotel La Salle, in Chicago, Friday and Saturday. The recently organized Showmen's League of America, the object of the league is to build and maintain in Chicago, a home for indigent showmen.

The banquet will carry the atmosphere of the circus throughout. The Hotel La Salle is to be known as "The Lot," and the Louis XVI. banquet hall as the "Circus Cook Tent." U. J. Herrman will preside as toastmaster and the after dinner speakers will be Edward Fitzwilliam, whose topic will be "The Circus," and Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," who will speak of "Frontier Days."

The celebration will begin Friday morning with the arrival at the Northwestern railway depot of Colonel Cody, who is president of the league. He will be accompanied by an escort of cowboys and Indians from his "Scout's Rest" ranch at North Platte, Neb.

David W. Watt, whose Saturday articles on old circus life have delighted the readers of the Gazette for some time past, will be Janesville's representative at the big gathering.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Frank Mercier.

The funeral of Mrs. Frank Mercier was held at the Baptist church in Afton at two o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. Roth of Beloit, conducting the services. The remains were laid to rest in the Afton cemetery. Those acting as pall bearers were George Otis, Charles Griffin, George Robb, Fred Kethelhorn, Albert Stark, and John Brinkman. Many friends of the departed were present at the funeral. Mrs. Harry Eddy and Mrs. David Johnston sang a duet.

Mrs. Elizabeth Teubert.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Teubert were held at eleven o'clock this morning from the home of her son, Charles Teubert in the town of Rock, and at one o'clock in the church at Hanover. The Rev. Hemstedt officiated and burial was made in Plymouth cemetery. Those who served as pall bearers were Henry and Fred Teubert and Charles and Fred Wedel.

CHILD LABOR AND POVERTY TOPIC UNDER DISCUSSION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Jacksonville, Fla., March 12.—From all parts of the country men and women who have dedicated their lives to the betterment of the moral and physical condition of the child worker are arriving in this city to take part in the annual conference of the National Child Labor Committee. The sessions of the conference will begin tomorrow and continue until the end of the week. "Child labor and poverty" has been selected as the general topic for discussion.

FINANCE COMMITTEE HAS HEARING ON ROSA BILL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 12.—The committee on finance gave a hearing yesterday to the Rosa bill for an appropriation of $100,000 to prevent the spread of diseases among cattle. It also heard arguments on the Engstrom bill to have the state purchase the site of the first territorial capitol building.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS HEAR TALK ON CHINA

Were Addressed This Morning by Paul L. Corbin, Who Has Traveled Through Much of the Orient.

Paul L. Corbin, of Shanghai, China, spent about five quarters of an hour this morning in talking to the student body of the high school on the conditions and affairs in China. He took up northern China more in detail because of the fact that he had been there most of his time, while traveling in the Orient. For about eight years he traveled in this part of the country, and here he became accustomed to the various ways and methods of the people.

He stated that a person going to China would not learn of the real settled parts, travelers generally visit the coast cities, and avoid invading the interior sections of the country. When this inner part of the country is invaded, the traveler has to become accustomed to the peculiar customs prevalent in this district. The first thing may be the various carts which are the means of conveyance. Of course there are no springs or smooth riding vehicles as in this country, and this annoyance together with the old century roads, makes it quite difficult for the strange person to understand himself to it.

This section is very mountainous, and when you travel all day on one of these cars, a destination is reached on the side of a hill. You get out here and invade this little settlement, and find it to be a small city with no walled houses. The only protection the Chinese have is a hold dug in the side of the hill, known as a cave-in.

After entrance, a meal may be awaiting you. This consists of do strings or a kind of macaroni, with one of two kinds of meat to go with it. These meats are mutton, or goat meat, and pork. Then sleeping is the next thing. The beds are made of bricks, and Mr. Corbin said that it was worse sleeping here than sleeping with his forefathers. At this particular time he had to sleep with ten Chinese.

A very interesting story of opium and its uses was given by Mr. Corbin. Opium is first obtained from the poppy and later refined. When the opium smoker wishes some for use, he takes the liquid juice, and makes a sort of paste. This paste is heated over a lamp, burning on the floor, and then inserted in a pipe. The smoker then whiffs the smoke into his system. After a time his vitality is gone, and he goes to sleep. After a smoker becomes a fiend to this drug, he grows gradually weak, and sooner or later, he dies, a wreck of skin and bones. In 1909, the Chinese government, became alarmed at the death rate due to opium smokers, and so got busy. They passed an edict, and this edict went into effect in 1909, stating that within ten years no opium would be prevalent in China. Lately the Republic was formed, and this new government issued another edict or what is now a law, that the country should be cleaned of this poison at once. Now no opium is grown in the northern part and all citizens under a certain age, if found smoking opium, are sentenced to death. The habit is fast dying away.

Mr. Corbin told of another experience while in China, and while in the city of Tygu. In December, 1911, the rebels of China arose to revolt. The gates of the city of Tygu were closed, and guards were stationed at the gates. Mr. Corbin asked if he could remain, and beg for assistance to the community. The Chinese were pleased to have him with them, and so he stayed. He was given a transport, and was allowed to pass out of the south gate of this city at any time. Last Christmas he received a medal from the citizens of this city for his courage, and for his good work while in this city at the time of the revolt. He said it was a memorial of peaceful protection to him.

Mr. Corbin also explained the various methods of teaching, old and new, and stated that out of the world's population, that one fourth of these people are Chinese. The students were pleased to listen to such an interesting topic, and Mr. Corbin was very interesting and instructive.

Hear Fitzwilliam at Central hall Thursday evening.

COLONIZATION CAR OF THE ST. PAUL ROAD IS IN CITY

The Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railroad's exhibit car illustrating the products raised around the territory of the Puget Sound branch of the road is on exhibition in Janesville and is situated back of the station. Products of the states of the two Dakotas, Montana, and Idaho are shown, some of the grains being grown by dry farming. Fine specimens of grains and fruits are on display illustrating the productive ability of the newly opened land. The St. Paul railroad built the Puget Sound branch and took it over on the first of this year after which the company made a close investigation of the country around their right of way. The exhibit car is well stocked with examples of the corn, wheat, barley and alfalfa which is grown there. Fruit grown in this region is also displayed and a large pumpkin is one of the side attractions. H. T. Blair of the Saint Paul immigration bureau, lectured at the Majestic Theatre where a free exhibition aided by motion pictures and views was given this afternoon.

The Saint Paul started building the new line from Mobridge, South Dakota, in 1896 and was finished in 1903.

During this period more than sixty million cubic yards of material had been excavated, and many thousands of feet of tunnel driven and over two hundred thousand pounds of rails used and having the record of being the quickest built railroad in the world. The total cost of building this extension was about eighty-five million dollars. After the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railroad had taken the branch over the company changed its name to the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railroad. In order to acquaint the people with the productive ability of the land these cars and lecturers have been sent out around the country.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE LAW IS LIBERTY.

That sounds like a paradox. But some seeming paradoxes are the most profound truths. The only man who is truly free is he who so wholly lives within the law that he does not feel it and is scarcely conscious of its existence.

This is true of the moral law, of the natural law and of the human law. True liberty is the freedom from lawless desires.

Transgression of the moral and natural law means destruction for ourselves individually. Transgression of the human law means interference with society and the rights of others. This also reacts on ourselves. Thus by seeking a liberty outside the law we bring ourselves into bondage.

The only true freedom is within the law. The law marks the boundaries of liberty.

We talk of breaking the law, but such a thing is impossible. We only break ourselves.

The law is exactly as it was before, but we are not.

If we have broken a moral law we are troubled in our consciences, if we have broken a natural law we are troubled in our bodies, and if we have broken a human law we are troubled in our social relations.

The law is our best friend, for while it conditions us, it also protects us. We know that within it we are safe.

The man who transgresses the moral law is in bondage to an invisible Neutis, to his own sense of guilt and to the disesteem of all who know his fault. The man who transgresses the natural law is in bondage to bodily injury or ill, to impaired functions and to pain. The man who transgresses the human law is in bondage to fear of detection and, if found out, to deprivation of life, liberty or property and to social ostracism.

If lawlessness is bondage then lawfulness is liberty.

The man who lives in harmony with all law is the only true freeman. He is at peace with God and man, with his own body and his own soul.

We have been seeking a definition for liberty, not knowing it was at our very hand.

The law is liberty.

SAW INAUGURAL PARADE OF CHINESE PRESIDENT

Sanford Bolstad, Who Worked in This City Several Years Ago, Visits Janesville Friends.

Sanford Bolstad, who worked in this city for a short time five years ago, being employed at the sugar factory, and who returned a few months ago from a three years' stay in the Philippines, China and Japan, spent a few hours in Janesville today visiting friends. Mr. Bolstad was most of this time in government clerical service at Manila, but visited almost every part of the island of Luzon. He witnessed some of the disorders in Shanghai and other cities incident to the Chinese revolution, and was in Peking, the capital when Yuan Shai Kai was inaugurated president. He saw the new head of the Chinese republic when watching the inaugural parade. Conditions in China are rapidly being changed for the better under the new regime, he says.

Few Filipinos desire immediate or early independence according to Mr. Bolstad and they are principally politicians and professional agitators. Retrogression in the general welfare of the country and a quick disruption would follow evacuation by the United States at this time.

MARVEL OF MICROSCOPY SHOWN AT EXHIBITION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, Ill., March 12.—A complete copy of the Bible written on a square inch of glass is one of many interesting exhibits illustrating the marvels of modern microscopy that were displayed here today at the opening of the national convention of microscopists and microphotographers. The convention sessions are being held at the Academy of Sciences and will continue several days. The chief aim of the gathering is to bring the microscope into more general use, particularly along the lines of protecting mankind against disease and pointing the way for remedies.

Port Shop Shots by Dad McCarty

The Harvard University boys certainly are anxious to get a whack at the Brits. They declare that they will train until July if Oxford and Cambridge will agree to no earlier date for their international track meet with Yale and Harvard. Yale men are reported to be of the same mind. In spite of the enthusiasm of the American youths, a determined attempt will be made to bring the meet in the latter part of June.

The young members of the New York Giants have been getting some intense practice in fielding bunts. Manager McGraw is a great stickler for laying 'em down and also for the proper handling of bunts by the catcher and pitcher. It is attention to just such fine points as this that makes a championship team, and Muggsy McGraw is strong for such teams.

Former champion-maker Ed. Reulbach, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, is not having any too easy a time of it this spring. Just the other day, when he was pitching for the regulars, the yanigans in two innings got to him for seven hits, five passes, and a hit batter. It was not so in the good old days.

BEGIN TO PREPARE FOR SPRING SPORTS

Fishermen, Golfers and Baseball Fans are Alike Inspired With the Coming of First Warm Days.

With the coming of warm weather, all sport fans, baseball "bug" or fisherman look forward to the season's possibilities. One of the most important pleasures of a sportsman is preparing for the season. It is very probable that the fisherman has taken his rod from its winter hiding place and inspected it with careful scrutiny and made repairs upon it as his skill or knowledge permits. While he is doing this, memories of incidents of last year will arise before his eyes. He will remember of catching the big ones, of waiting in the boiling sun on the lake for that one supreme moment when there comes that familiar tug and switch of water and away goes the big one with the reel singing at a lively clip.

Golfers are Active. When the snow leaves the ground the golfers will be right there to lose some of their energy that has been stored up over winter and the Mississippi links will again be the scene of pleasures for the golfer. Clubs have been already sent to the repair men and the members have longed for an afternoon's sport at the course just to see if they could replicate the deeds of last year. To get out on the green grass and swing at that ball with vim and vigor, to see how loud he could yell "fore," to see if the old masher or brassie was the same true club as in the past, after long hard service, are desires which are now burning. Business men cannot be blamed for forgetting the cares of duty for a short time and think of golfing for a few minutes. To get out and slam the little white ball around and beat boys would be more of an ill chaser than all the spring tonics that could be loaded on a day.

Interest in Baseball. While the big leagues are enjoying the warm sunshine of the south and getting into condition, young hopefuls around Janesville are longing for a chance to throw the horse hide around and begin the season. Janesville talent is now figuring out just how much longer they will have to wait before they can have their first game. Last year's mitts and gloves have been carefully tested to see if they would stand another year's playing and bats have been brought down from a corner in the attic or cellar and swung with all energy possible at an imaginary ball just to show how a few triples and doubles will be knocked out of the rival pitcher.

The high school athletes are planning to have a baseball team and with the host of material in the school at the present time a championship team should result from any efforts to organize one. Every position with the possible exception of a catcher could be readily filled. Beloit high school will, as in the past have a team and all the local high school followers are predicting at an early date a clean sweep if the Janesville team runs up against them. If Janesville should defeat them in baseball it would mean revenge in every respect for Beloit has been beaten in every contest this year.

EXPECT HARD GAME WITH INDIANA TEAM

Janesville Polo Players Schedule A Game With Champions of Neighboring State.

Janesville roller polo fans will have the opportunity of seeing the best game of the year when the Moose team of this city will meet the Richmond, Indiana Stars here, on the nineteenth and twentieth of this month. The local players were disappointed to be unable to secure a game with the Elmwood Stars who defeated Racine. But are jubilant over the arrangement of the game with the Richmond team who are champions of Indiana and have some of the best polo players in the west in their lineup. They are to play two nights because of the heavy expense attached to the engagement.

Janesville is out to win and close the season without another defeat. The men are practicing hard to be able to compete successfully with the crack Indiana team. This game will undoubtedly be the best of the year for both teams are the best in their districts.

WISCONSIN-ILLINOIS LEAGUE SEASON MAY 3

The Wisconsin-Illinois League will start its ninth pennant race on May 3. The Aurora team has been transferred to Milwaukee and will play in that city when the American Association team is on the road. The W-I managers are: Harry Bay, Madison; John Malloy, Wausau; Joe Killian, Oshkosh; William Crystal, Appleton; Robert Lynch, Green Bay; William Fox, Racine, and George Buser, Rockford.

WILL MEET ALUMNI ON FRIDAY EVENING

High School Five Will be Given a Hard Game in Preparation for Appleton Series.

Friday night, in the high school gymnasium, the local high school basketball team may battle with the Alumni in their 12th contest this season. The Alumni met defeat at the hands of the high school five earlier in the season, by a score of 21 to 16, and it is certain that the Alumni will come back strong, and make an attempt to outdo the high school boys in their stride to make state honors. The receipts of this game will be used in purchasing sweaters for the team, and when the sweaters are received, the team will be decked out in new costumes, as they now have their new suits. The Alumni five will be composed of old time players, and a hard game can be looked for. The local high school need some hard games before they attempt to play against some of the northern teams in the state tournament, and it is thought, the Alumni will give them as hard a rub as they wish.

The game scheduled with Baraboo for this week Thursday at that place has been cancelled by the northerners, owing to the defeat handed them by the locals at the Beloit tournament last Saturday night. The locals are rather disappointed, as they expected to defeat the Baraboo five, and even if they didn't, the game would be just what the locals would need as practice.

JIM HALL IS DYING FROM TUBERCULOSIS

Once Great Fighter Who Has Boxed in Janesville Living in Home Near Neenah.

Jim Hall, one time aspirant for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, and well known to Janesville fans of past decades, is dying of tuberculosis in a home in the city of Neenah.

Just twenty years ago last Saturday, Hall fought Bob Fitzsimmons at New Orleans for a $20,000 purse and the world's championship. He was knocked out in the fourth round by the sorrel topped marvel. Previous to that time Hall had defeated "Luby Bob" in Australia.

Hall has boxed in Janesville in bygone days and more recently acted as referee at one of the boxing contests held under the auspices of the Eagles in their hall.

LAST NIGHT BOWLING SCORES.

FRIEDMANN WILL DELIVER ADDRESS ON TUBERCULOSIS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Ottawa, Ont., March 12.—Dr. Friedmann, famous as the discoverer of a possible cure for tuberculosis, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address before the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, which began its annual convention in this city today. The Duke of Connaught is also to address the convention, which will be in session two days. Hon. Adam Beck is presiding.

The Cause of Rheumatism. Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Maybe your rheumatic pains come from your stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by People's Drug Store.

The Theatre

THOMAS W. ROSS IN "THE ONLY SON."

Thos. W. Ross, who created "The Fortune Hunter," "Checkers," "The Traveling Salesman," and other well known successes, will come to the Myers theatre, special return engagement, Friday evening, March 14, and will give for the first time here Winchell Smith's newest comedy drama, considerably enhanced by its superior dramatic possibilities, since the plot of "The Only Son" revolves around the escapades and reform of this newest prodigal.

"OUR WIVES"

The second act of "Our Wives" is the exact replica of a famous New York artist's living-room in one of the old houses in Gramercy Park.

THOS. W. ROSS IN "THE ONLY SON," AT MYERS THEATRE (Return Engagement) FRIDAY, MARCH 14.

"The Only Son." In the character of Thomas Brainerd, Jr., Mr. Ross has undoubtedly scored a most pretentious personal success. The part is replete with the same bright, scintillating comedy lines which made "The Fortune Hunter" so enjoyable, and is service based on those same principles. The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture not only obtains, as it were, a bird's-eye view of atmospheric conditions over the entire country every 12 hours, but on special occasions it makes a survey of a severe storm area every 3 or 4 hours, following its movements and developments very closely until it spends its force or passes beyond the limits of observation.

When reading the forecasts and warnings issued by the weather bureau from time to time, you may not have realized that they were based upon such an elaborate system. Possibly you have been inclined to give equal confidence and credit to the opinions of certain individuals who talk mysteriously about the influence of the moon and the planets upon our weather, and who attempt to create the impression that the scientists of our government weather bureau are groping in the darkness of ignorance.

It is the purpose of this pamphlet to explain how the seemingly impossible feat of obtaining an atmospheric survey of the entire country is accomplished, and to show that it is the only logical means of forecasting the weather. The following articles will also explain how the various phenomena that we experience in our daily weather changes are accomplished by physical forces in our atmosphere, and in a general way are well understood.

Forecasting the Weather

Introductory. If it were possible for a certain man to rise to a point every 12 hours where he could view the entire country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to Mexico and the West Indies, and if he could distinctly see the weather conditions over that entire territory and could watch the developments and movements of the storms areas, you would no doubt have a great deal of confidence in his ability to give out information regarding those conditions.

If on descending from one of his observations he should state that a storm area was moving in such a manner that its edge would pass near a given locality, you could readily understand that it would be a difficult matter to determine with certainty whether it would touch that particular locality or not.

Under such circumstances you would not call him a guesser if he should be in error 20 per cent of the time. You would say, "That man goes on where he can see all of the storms every 12 hours and can trace their movements continuously. He is able to outline ahead of each storm the greater portion of the territory that it will cover during the succeeding 24 to 36 hours. When the movements are somewhat irregular and the storms extend slightly beyond the territory outlined in some places and do not quite cover it in other places, it is a result that might reasonably be expected. On the average his information is accurate for more than four-fifths of the territory outlined, and such a high degree of success is surely not to be termed guesswork. If he can not tell with certainty regarding some localities then there is no use in others trying to do so, for he says it all."

If any man could accomplish such a survey, what would his services be worth to the country? What would you think of the person who attempted to belittle his advice? Wouldn't it be plain to you that after obtaining a bird's-eye view of the whole country he would, at once, know more about the prevailing conditions than anyone else possibly could? Wouldn't you have a great deal of confidence in the opinions and advice that such a man offered, and wouldn't you defend him against all unjust criticism? Difficult as such an achievement

GETTING STARTED.

There is everything in getting started right and President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are doing their utmost to re-wire the machinery of the government so that it will hold together while they are selecting the new parts from the many applicants that are most eager to serve for "their party's sake." There are dozens of faithful democrats who would be glad to fill any position, from ambassador of the court of St. James down, down to watchman in the treasury, and from this multitude of office-seekers it is going to be hard work to make selections. The long, lean years of democracy have not taught any of the ambitious politicians anything like patience and the delay in confirming appointments that are made is most maddening to the average democrat. However the clean sweep is just getting started now and it will take time to make every change contemplated.

PANDORA'S BOX.

Under this caption the Wall Street Journal makes the following comment on the denial of the use of the mails and interstate telephone and telegraph as a means of enforcing compliance to legislation not within the jurisdiction of congress is more dangerous than the evils the Pujio committee felt it had discovered. It would imply that if the constitution barred the entrance of congress into the field of domestic affairs that body would climb over it or dig under it, or that if congress cannot accomplish its purpose by direct means it will do so by indirect means.

That the Constitution is not a guide to tell congress what it may and may not do, but sometimes to be evaded as an unprincipled lawyer is supposed to evade the statute law, is the proposition submitted to the people by congress. The jurisdiction of the government would no longer be limited by the Constitution but would be a question entirely of the government's power and strength. It would incidentally mean federal meddling in the affairs of the state.

Such an evasion of the Constitution would undoubtedly be the opening of a Pandora's box, letting loose a train of evils that would endanger our form of government. There is just one way to effect reforms, and that is by constitutional methods.

TIME TO PREPARE.

With the first spring thaws the average property-owner begins planning for the garden, be it large or small, that he contemplates planting. The housewife talks of spring sewing and housecleaning but the out of door question is the one topic most at the heart of the wage-earner. It may be flowers, it may be vegetables, that are to be planted, but it is none too early to buy the seeds. An exchange delivers the following sermon on the subject which will appeal to Janesville people as well as others.

"Even spring, the urbane season of the year, must submit to the rule of efficiency and 'do it now.' But we can endure it. We are in the mood already to welcome spring, despite the mildness of the winter. But as to the garden seeds, indeed it is none too early to think about them, and to purchase if you can come to a decision. The seed catalogues are so alluring! It is hard to select. Read a page and there is another page, and another. And each is so convincing. One needs a large plantation to give the spring catalogue scope, and to satisfy the eager hunger of the winter-satiated man and woman.

"The garden seed catalogue is a great power for the amelioration of the normal condition of man. It draws men together—what more surely and effectively? The mysteries and conquests of the garden may be discussed in all homes, and by all companies. There is not a city person so atrophied as not to be willing to talk about the earth and its products. The profound subjects bred of early peas, cut-worms, the virtues of string beans, the first cucumber, the pumpkin vine that 'came up itself,' the strawberry bed, the Burbank sweet peas, and all the unusual experiences that come with the usual miracles of nature when she is working to feed mankind—these are topics that draw men and women together.

"Meanwhile, while we are looking at the seed catalogues, we are covertly turning up the mulch over the bulbs we planted last fall, to see if there are any green sprouts in sight; and when one is discovered we are as proud as Peary, or Amundsen, or even Dr. Cook! The first daffodil in the neighborhood—how it confers distinction! If there is a warm corner, on the south side of the house, sheltered from the harsh winds of the east and exposed to the full power of the sun, it is there that you have planted the daffodil bulbs, if you are canny, and really wish to be the first to display the lovely yellow flowers. When the small bed is full of long green stalks, and each stalk has a glorious yellow blossom, there is nothing more prideful.

"As we buy garden seeds we let the imagination revel in that which the seeds mean to us. We work the ground, plant, water, weed, watch, and finally see the tiny breaks in the earth, then the bit of green, then from day to day the stalk, the bud, and finally the lovely and sweet flower. And all the while we prove to ourselves that it is the man who is willing to delve that can really get most happiness from the blossom."

Do not forget that the April election is an important one in view of the fact that a successor to Judge J. W. Sale of the probate court is to be selected. It will be hard work to fill the office as acceptably as Judge Sale has, but still there is good material seeking the public favor and the voter should make his selection carefully.

Woman suffrage is again having an inning before the state legislature and it may go to the vote of the people again at the next general election. If the advocates of the idea would offer some inducements, say the abolishment of the long hat pin or the button up the back dress, they might accomplish something.

Chicago is having a probe into the salaries of women wage-earners and also discussing the divorce question at the same time. As a side issue it is convicting a few murderers, once in a while, so as not to entirely discourage the legal profession.

One plan to conserve the natural resources of the country is to put the vice-president at work. Mr. Marshall has had a record for being a willing worker and doubtless would be glad of the opportunity.

An anxious subscriber has asked for the correct pronunciation of Huerta. By some it is pronounced as though spelled "Whirta," but the majority of his victims pronounce it "butcher."

The first wireless message to be sent from Paris to New York is to be started at the Eiffel tower and not the Moulin Rouge where the majority of the reports of Paris originate from.

President Wilson announces that all reports to the contrary, Uncle Sam is still working in the capacity of policeman for the western continent.

J. Ham Lewis and his pink whiskers may not grace the senate chamber at Washington after all, but still Ham hopes they will.

The legislature with its "ism" and "schism" is about as handy an adjunct to the state as the fourth leg of a milking stool would be.

The ground-hog has been vindicated. Let it suffice at that.

Sour Grapes.

These here new fangled auto cars are handy, it must be confessed, but when it comes to pleasure I enjoy the old bay mare the best.

When I go out joy ridin' with my best gal sittin' by my side,

I know that I will get back home, for my old mare is true and tried.

She never makes me walk nine miles to find a country blacksmith shop.

Where I kin get her tires repaired, I'm not afraid of any cop.

She's got it forty ways upon a short-in' sneezin' gas machine,

And she's the best old sparkin' plug that me and my gal's ever seen.

Her carburetor works fust rate, her coolin' system is immense,

And you kin run her all day long and at a very light expense.

She's never laid up fer' repairs, she doesn't have to wear no tag,

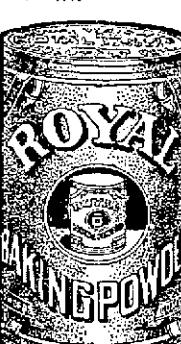

She never plunges in the ditch, for she's a very docile nag.

The speed laws she don't violate and I have never yet got pinched.

For safe and sane enjoyment, I have surely got the method cinched.

No folks that walk are cussin' me, I don't scare 'em out of their boots.

By runnin' up behind 'em quick and lettin' out a lot of toots.

She don't use up no gasoline or balk or back or wheeze a bit. She kin go by a roadhouse without tryin' to turn in to it.

I didn't have to pay no mortgage on my house when I got her.

My creditors don't stand and wonder what on earth I bought her for.

She's good for many seasons and each year she don't go out of style.

And make me buy a new one every spring and lose my hard earned pile.

She never yet has tossed me out in to a tree to break my neck.

Of course, the autos are all right, but give me my old mare, by heck.

WESTON SENTENCED TO ONE YEAR TERM ON PLEA OF GUILTY

Former Bookkeeper of Rock River Woolen Company Acknowledges Embezzling From Employers.

John Weston, seven weeks a refugee from justice following an escape from the custody of a detective in this city, and five weeks a prisoner at the county jail since his arrest in Buffalo, awaiting a trial which has been repeatedly postponed because of his vacillation, pleaded guilty in the municipal court this morning to embezzling $35 from his former employers, The Rock River Woolen Mills, and was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the state reformatory at Green Bay.

Weston's trial had been set for tomorrow morning, and the jury to try him had been drawn, but not subpoenaed, his attorney John L. Fisher having informed Judge Fife and District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie that there was strong probability that his client would change his plea. The sentence given is the maximum for an embezzlement of the sum stated.

By pleading guilty to the offense charged against him, Weston escapes a probable sentence of much longer duration, the company has evidence in the form of check stubs, cancelled checks, books, and records which it is alleged show defalcations running into many hundreds of dollars. No less than five thousand checks would have been placed in evidence, and the trial would have occupied from three to four days' time.

Weston was arrested in Milwaukee on December 8, and brought to this city the next day by a Pinkerton detective, from whom he escaped by a clever ruse. The next heard of him was when the Cincinnati Chief of Police reported to the local police that he had forged a check for $25 on Benjamin Hay & Company on December 31. The Cincinnati police requested that he be placed under arrest here in case he was acquitted of the local charges against him. His arrest took place at Buffalo on Monday, January 29, and he was brought back to Janesville by Chief of Police Appleby on February 2. Weston's examination was set for February 10, and his bail set at $1500. He was unable to raise a further postponement of the examination was made to the following Wednesday when he waived his right to examination and his trial was set for Monday, March 2. At that time he pleaded not guilty, but his attorney asked the right to enter a plea of guilty for him later if he so desired. The case was continued to March 13.

Between the time of his escape from the reformatory in this city and his arrest in Buffalo, Weston visited Cincinnati, New York, Jersey City and Philadelphia, and as nearly as can be learned he committed a fraud in each of these cities. At Cincinnati, in addition to forging a check for $35, he is alleged to have obtained other sums of money under false pretenses, and in New York to have obtained $50 as a loan from Kelle & Company, a dye stuff firm, by representing himself as a representative of the Rock River Woolen Mills.

Weston is said to have forged two checks in Jersey City, and to have secured $50 from the Dobbin & Company, a soap firm, by representing himself as A. J. Jones of this city. The police hold a warrant for Weston on this charge.

PERCY MERRILL IS TAKEN TO MENDOTA BY SHERIFF TODAY

Young Man Who Confessed to Recent Incendiary Attempts, Committed to Asylum Following Examination.

Percy Merrill, confessed incendiary, who was taken into custody by State Fire Marshal Thomas Parrell, Tuesday afternoon, and to whom, in the presence of J. F. Baker, attorney for the fire marshal's office, and others, Merrill told his story, was examined for his sanity by Drs. Frank W. Van Kirk and Charles Sutherland and adjudged insane today. He was committed by Judge Sale to the state hospital at Mendota for which institution he departed on the 11:30 train under the charge of Sheriff C. S. Whipple.

Merrill's confession, which was taken down by Ray W. Clarke, court reporter, contains admissions that he was responsible for the fires in the Sadler harness shop, the Bostwick building on Court street, the attempts to fire the Welch and Calkins warehouses, and the blaze at the Northwestern freight depot.

In addition to these Merrill confessed that he was responsible for the false alarm which was turned in on Saturday last. In nearly every case he turned in the firm alarm himself and waited in hiding until the department arrived. He confessed that he had been under the influence of alcohol when he started the various fires and that he had been drinking heavily for some time.

When questioned in regard to the Bassett and Echlin fire of a year ago, Merrill denied that he was implicated in any way although he was in the city at the time.

District Attorney Dunwiddie felt confident, after hearing Merrill's statement yesterday afternoon, that the man was afflicted with an unusual mental condition and once took the matter up with Judge J. W. Sale of the county court and secured the appointment of the two physicians to examine the young man.

The doctors found very plainly that Merrill was mentally unbalanced. Not only in the matter of incendiaryism, but in regard to other things they discovered that his mental condition was not normal, and that he has evidently been mentally deficient for some time.

Young Merrill is a son of Mrs. Harry Merrill of this city and is a grandson of the late William Merrill, who for many years owned and managed the Janesville gas works. The young man has been employed at various times but never seemed to possess stability enough to keep a position for any length of time. While he worked he seemed interested in his duties, which he performed with care, and when he quit he could give no particular reason.

Don't miss Fitzwilliam tomorrow evening at Central hall.

The W. P. M. S. will meet at the church Thursday at 2:30. This is the Thank Offering service. Mrs. W. P. Leach will be the speaker. Every member come. A 15c tea will be served at 6 o'clock. Church people are urged to attend. Special music.

Hear Fitzwilliam at Central hall Thursday evening.

Catch Phrase for the Drunkard.
An excellent catch phrase for the suspected drunkard comes from a teetotaler on Stratford-on-Avon. "He put his hands into his British breeches pocket." You may find that sentence in "Jane Eyre." But the most strenuous abstainer would find it a little difficult of pronunciation.—London Chronicle.

Dentistry Laws of Old Rome. Under the laws of the twelve tables, written in Rome, 450 B. C., while it was expressly forbidden to bury gold ornaments with the dead, a special exception was made for gold with which teeth may be held together.

Martial, one of the satiric poets of Rome, once referred to the teeth of one woman as dark and another as white, and explained the difference with the statement that one of them bought her teeth, while the other had her own. The transplantation of teeth from the mouths of slaves into those of their mistresses is said to have been a common practice in the early days of the Roman Empire.

It is generally much warmer over the country than it was a week ago. The freezing line now runs through the northern states, except in the high regions of the west, and zero weather is reported only in Manitoba. In this vicinity the weather will be fair tonight and cloudy Thursday. The approach of the disturbance now in the southwest indicates unsettled weather later in the week.

The New Mitchell Is Here

It is Called "The Car Elegant."

We are going to let it do its own talking.

It will make a profound impression because of its simple elegance, its power, its complete equipment and the greatest quota of the most desirable features ever presented on any moderate priced car.

We won't blame you if you are dumbfounded. Our hopes were high, but we, too, gasped just a little when this beauty rolled out of the freight car.

The SIMPLE ELEGANCE of this car is irresistible. An intoxication of delight results when you drink in the details. You forget price; you forget all your favorite cars; you are planning to own this one before you know it. Care and study in every move by the makers created this unusual attribute; how well it has been done is seen in its effect on the most casual observer.

It is well nigh impossible to reconcile these cars and their prices. Studying them gives a clearer view of what automobile progress really means; keen, clever American progress; a blending of the best in European and American ideas; absolutely balanced and well rounded out value, as interpreted by these daring, able and successful manufacturers.

For $1500, $1850 $2500 these four and six cylinder cars appear sparkling and beautiful on the horizon of motor car values. They're new, they're different, they're compelling. Their equal for the money has never been built.

Electric lights and electric starter come on each model. It is the Berdon system---or systems, rather---for there are two, separate and distinct, each run independently of the other.

The electric headlights on these cars allow you to read this ad on the darkest night, a quarter of a mile in front of the car. A reduction switch is used to dim the lights for city driving.

Turkish upholstery, nickel mountings, soft comfortable seats that are properly tilted and form-fitting, combined with long wheel bases---120, 132 and 144 inches---specially designed seven-eighth elliptic rear springs and big 36-inch wheels, make an array of values such as you have never seen in an automobile.

Long, clean running boards, lend a majesty that's fetching; the cars are low and rakish, but not freakish.

As to power all we can say is that the cylinders in this $1500 car we have on display, are 4 1-4 by 7 inches; piston displacement 397.21 cubic inches. It is called 40 h. p., but it gives 53 on the brake test at the factory. Can you equal this power for anywhere near the price,

You cannot!

The Light Six---cylinders 4 by 6---for $1850 with 50 h. p. and the Big Six---cylinders 4 1-4 by 7---for $2500 with 60 h. p. will be here later in the month.

Your sense of the artistic will respond to these cars; your sense of old-fashioned, honest value will urge purchase. Come with your mind made up to be surprised---but come and see this car.

FAMILY CUSTOMS.

DOES IT ever occur to you that the family of today does not have so many of those distinctive family customs that helped strengthen family feeling in the homes of a generation ago?

I may be mistaken, but that is the way it seems to me, and I am sorry, because I think a home cannot have too many of these little customs. Just as national customs strengthen national feeling, so family customs strengthen the home feeling. And in these days when there is so much outside the home to attract our young folks, we need all the ties we can possibly have to bind them to the home life.

In a certain home in our neighborhood it has always been the family custom to read aloud Dickens' Christmas Carol before the open fire on the night before Christmas. Each member of the family takes his turn at reading. A big Yule log blazes in the fireplace, and nuts and apples are on the hearth. Sometimes neighbors who do not have Christmas Eve customs of their own join the family circle. Only once in the last twenty years has this ceremony been omitted, and that was the year the children had scarlet fever. Not more than once or twice has any member of the family been fully absent, and these occasions were during the moping season. In the last four years two "in-laws" and three grandchildren have been added to the little group. Last year the third son, who is a traveling salesman, reached home at five o'clock on the day before Christmas. "I've worked days and traveled nights for the last five days to make it," he said.

Just around the corner from this home is another, handsomer and more pretentious home, but it is without the spirit that expresses itself in customs like these. Last year on Christmas Eve, the mother of four grown children sat alone in her handsome living room in this house. Two of the children were at a theatre party, one had gone to a house party for the holidays, and one was at this very neighbor's.

When the years have added their glamour, the tenderness with which we remember the simplest and most prosaic home customs would be amusing if it were not something better.

As I was walking through the market stalls with a friend of mine, she stopped suddenly before a stall in which strips of tripe were artistically displayed. "Tripe," she murmured, with the accent of one meeting a long-lost friend, "well, that's the first time I've seen any tripe in years. When I was a child we used to have it every other Sunday morning alternating with fish balls. We never had it at any other time. In our family it belonged to Sunday morning, just as salmon and green peas do to the Fourth of July. Well, if that doesn't carry me back, and make me almost homesick."

Tripe is a most unromantic thing in itself, but when it became a family custom it was glorified. Such is the power of even the simplest and most prosaic custom to wind itself around the heart and strengthen the home feeling.

Surely, we cannot be too careful not to lose these from our home life.

A Young Couple's Start

THE trouble with most young couples nowadays," the woman was saying, "is that they want to begin where their parents leave off."

"Is that so reprehensible?" inquired her listener.

The speaker looked slightly astonished. "Why, of course," she said, "when I got married, I didn't think I must have a piano, an automobile, electric lights, a gas range, and such things."

"Would you want Edwin and Martha to go back to tallow dips and wood stores and a parlor with the shutters closed every day except Sunday, and a buggy, and such things?"

"Well, no," deliberated the other woman. "Not exactly that. But there is a medium."

"To be sure, there is," assented her listener. "But in objecting to your children starting where you leave off, you are perhaps going to one extreme, as much as they, in wanting unnecessary luxuries, are going to the other. You think Martha is extravagant in not being willing to marry Edwin until he can provide certain things she wants. But isn't there something to be said for her side of the case?"

"Perhaps I never thought of it in that way."

"If all the young folks started where we started, what would become of progress? It is this ambition of theirs to get ahead, to move on to better things than they have possessed, that continually hurls this old world of ours forward to greater and greater achievements."

"But they can go to extremes," objected the other woman. "They can have entirely too extravagant notions."

"To be sure they can. But that is just the place for older heads to give the proper advice; not to condemn, wholesale, their desire for the best, but to help them discriminate between the essential and the non-essential. Marriage and love and a home should not be sacrificed for non-essentials; but, as most young people have been raised today, marriage and love and the home may come to shipwreck if certain essentials of life are not provided. You must remember that some of the essentials of present-day living were unnecessary or unknown luxuries of your time. Before condemning, get the point of view of today. Most girls reared as Martha has been, would be very unwise to marry on an eight-dollar-a-week salary. The exceptional couple might win out, but even then the experience would be a trying one. And in most cases, there would be a year or two of unhappiness, and then a separation. There is something to be said for the ambition of a young couple to begin where the parents leave off."

My Best Meat Dishes.

It has been truly said "Any one can cook meats." This is usually true with the regularly engaged cook. She will be able to cook meats very well if she can cook at all, and not be able to cook vegetables. The facts are these, if it is roasting she soon learns that she must have a very hot oven and fifteen minutes to the pound, or broiling to slide the steak or chops under the broiler, turn often and cook a certain time according to the thickness of the meat. But often with this knowledge a variety is necessary, if for no other reason out of expense. The most expensive cuts of meats are for roasts and steaks. The majority of families cannot afford that for steady living. Neither do hotels and restaurants, that is why we have various changes in meats such as steaks, casseroles, croquettes, etc., on their menus.

Ham Casserole.

Materials—Smoked ham, two inches thick, 1 slice; canned tomatoes, 2 cans; sweet green pepper, 1; whole cloves, 8.

Utensils—Earthen casserole, measuring cup, sharp knife.
Directions—Select the cut if possible from near the center of the ham, trimming off all the fat but about one-fourth of an inch, and lay in the casserole. Over this pour the tomatoes, or slice fresh ones in season; add the chopped pepper, sliced onion, bay leaf and cloves. Cover and set into a very moderate oven and bake one and one-half hours. With a pancake turner carefully remove the ham to a hot platter, pouring the strained, thickened sauce around it. Garnish with water cress.
Casseroles are earthen covered dishes and are very essential for meats, poultry and game, which require long, slow cooking. Use them also for all of the cheap cuts of meats, corn beef, baking apples, peaches, pears and many puddings. They are great economy-makers in time, fuel and the food, which is far superior in flavor and food value.
From Mrs. Kirk's Card Index Cooking Recipes:
Country Club Chicken.
Materials—Broilers or young chickens, bread crumbs, egg, cream, salt and paprika, sherry.
Utensils—Sharp knife, pan.
Directions—If broilers are used cut in halves or if larger chickens are used cut in several pieces. Wipe with a damp cloth and dry.
Dip each piece in beaten egg well seasoned with salt and paprika and mixed with cream. Roll each piece in

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of 19 and never kept steady company. Do you think I have lots of time, or should I keep steady so as to learn the ways of men?

(2)—I have six brothers, all older than myself. They seem to think no fellow good enough for me. I have quite a few admirers. (3)—Is it right for a young man to kiss my hand when he leaves for home after he has called the first time? Or is it proper to shake hands in parting?

(4)—A young man schoolmate is in college now. I thought he would forget me after he saw so many pretty girls at college, but he still writes to me. He wants my picture. Should I send it? (5)—Another young man says he loves me. He sent me his picture, but I always thought he cared for my girl friend. (6)—About a month ago I met a young man who lives in another town. He wants me to keep company. My girl friends say he has a case on me. He did not write me this week. I think I have offended him because in his last letter he asked if I loved him. I answered it was a subject I didn't think of. If he loves me he will write or call again, don't you think?

(7)—Is it right for me to listen to my brothers, as I do, in telling me whom to go with? (8)—Is it right to correspond with a fellow who has a girl? (9)—Is it wrong to give "hot air" when persons give you the same?

(10)—Don't keep steady company with any man unless you are engaged to marry him. (11)—With six brothers you ought to know men pretty well. (12)—Hand-kissing is an old-fashioned courtesy. (13)—Don't send the picture. He is probably very fond of you. (14)—If you don't care for him, don't encourage him. (15)—Yes, if he loves you really you will hear from him again. (16)—Yes. (17)—No. (18)—Don't be unadvisable, my dear.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 17 and have been corresponding with three boys for quite a while, but my best beau seems to be very jealous. He doesn't want me to correspond with anybody else or even walk with any other boy. He is very rough, but says he is willing to quit his studies if I will quit my other friends. Do you think it wise for me to quit my other friends for him?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 13. What will grow hair and fatten my legs and arms?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What is your opinion of a girl who asks a boy to take her to a party and then asks him (through another girl) if he minds if she comes back with another boy? (2)—If you were a young man would you marry a girl who bears her mother's maiden name only?

(3)—If I thought a good deal of the girl I would ask her if there was any particularly good reason for her action. If I cared nothing for her I wouldn't be anxious to take her out again. (4)—It depends. If she is a good, sweet girl and I loved her, I wouldn't care anything about her name.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I find myself in the embarrassing position of being engaged to two men and loving a third. I really couldn't help myself at the time I loved each one. Shall I break my engagement so as to be free from my real lover if he should ever ask me?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A young man of 24 paid a good deal of attention to me at the skating rink and outside, when I see him, he always speaks to me, though we have not been introduced. How can I get better acquainted with him?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A young man of 24 paid a good deal of attention to me at the skating rink and outside, when I see him, he always speaks to me, though we have not been introduced. How can I get better acquainted with him?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 17 and have been corresponding with three boys for quite a while, but my best beau seems to be very jealous. He doesn't want me to correspond with anybody else or even walk with any other boy. He is very rough, but says he is willing to quit his studies if I will quit my other friends. Do you think it wise for me to quit my other friends for him?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 13. What will grow hair and fat-

ten my legs and arms?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What is your opinion of a girl who asks a boy to take her to a party and then asks him (through another girl) if he minds if she comes back with another boy? (2)—If you were a young man would you marry a girl who bears her mother's maiden name only?

(3)—If I thought a good deal of the girl I would ask her if there was any particularly good reason for her action. If I cared nothing for her I wouldn't be anxious to take her out again. (4)—It depends. If she is a good, sweet girl and I loved her, I wouldn't care anything about her name.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I find myself in the embarrassing position of being engaged to two men and loving a third. I really couldn't help myself at the time I loved each one. Shall I break my engagement so as to be free from my real lover if he should ever ask me?

JURORS ARE EXCUSED UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

Draw Jury in Finley Case Which Will Be Tried March 31—Tuesday Busy Day in Court.

Jurors drawn on the panel for the February term of the circuit court were excused by Judge Grimm yesterday afternoon until Monday, March 17, at two o'clock, at which time a jury will be drawn in the Belden murder case and the trial will be held at once. It was a busy afternoon in the circuit court. Tuesday, the Beloit rapist case of Emil C. Schmidt vs. Chas. Qualman et al., was heard and at the close of the testimony Judge Grimm instructed a verdict in favor of the plaintiff to the effect that he was entitled to the possession of the pianos over which the dispute arose but that he was not entitled to damages.

Following the disposal of this case the jury which have viewed the property at Evansville to be condemned for street purposes, had arrived and the matter was disposed of the condemnation being ordered.

It then remained to draw a jury in the case of Richard Finley against the St. Paul railroad company. This case was set for trial March 21st. Mr. Finley seeks damages from the company for injuries received when his automobile was struck by a train near Hanover last summer. He is represented by the firm of Jeffries, Mount, Oestrich and Avery, and T. S. Nolar has the case for the company.

One other jury matter was on the day calendar being a dispute between Beloit parties. After a conference between Judge Grimm and Attorneys Cornelius Buckley and Owen Ridland a settlement was affected without difficulty as the difference between the two parties was only $17.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

PILLS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

PILLS are a harmless substitute for medicine which a doctor gives when he is up against it. As this happens about nine-tenths of the time, the use of pills is increasing to such an extent that they are prescribed for everything from a broken rib to the cure of corns.

When a person has eaten something which refuses to lie down, he goes to a doctor and has his pulse timed to see if it exceeds 65 revolutions per minute. If the pulse is running on a regular schedule and the doctor is unable to find more than twelve or fifteen degrees of fever, he tells the patient that he is suffering from general lassitude of the cerebral cavity and puts up the same kind of pills which are used for facial paralysis. He also advises the patient to refrain from eating anything until the following Wednesday, give up the tobacco habit, drink a tub of hot water between meals, and sleep with all of his feet on a soapstone. A person never realizes the value of pills until he has been cured by this route.

Pills are composed of a high grade of best sugar liberally dosed with flavoring extract. This extract has high curative properties and will fly any disease that was ever invented. It is usually attached to white pills and fed in large quantities to people who can see an attack of the grip edging around the corner. Some men can never hear the stenographer sneeze in a high-pitched voice without pulling a bottle of pills out of their vest pocket and draining the contents. A teaspoonful of white pills, increasing the dose every half hour, will ward off everything but the undertaker.

The most disagreeable form of pill is the colored article, which can be tasted for several days without any effect whatever. Doctors always insist upon the patient taking one of these pills and allowing it to dissolve slowly on the tongue, after which it will cause the entire alimentary tract to rise up in rebellion. Pills would be more popular if they could be taken in the original package, including the twine and parcel post stamps.

Stop Neglecting Your Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Do the Work of the Strongest and Healthiest Stomach and Afford Instant Relief.

The worst case of indigestion is simply neglect to give the stomach needed assistance. When your food does not digest when gases form, when you experience that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, when the breath is foul, the tongue coated and that sour taste in the mouth—take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and watch how quickly every one of these symptoms disappear.

Your Stomach Will Never Give Out or Grow Old, if You Depend Upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

All that was needed was to digest that lump of food in your stomach, and the glands, whose duty it is to supply the gastric juices, had simply given out from overwork. So when you took that little tablet you were supplying exactly what was necessary to complete the process of digestion that the stomach had begun but was unable to finish.

If you would continue to take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for awhile, your stomach would have a chance to rest up and get well and strong again.

Try just one box and you will never want to be without this wonderful little remedy for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain an ingredient, one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. They are entirely harmless because they have absolutely no effect on the system one way or another except to do just the one thing—digest food.

Every drug store everywhere sells and recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents a box.

LINK AND PIN GIVE INSTRUCTIONS TO LOCAL TRAINMEN

Newly Appointed Northwestern Signal Inspector Will Visit Janesville Shops Shortly.

The newly appointed signal instructor, which the Northwestern created on March first, will visit the local shops and division within a short time. This is a new move on the company's part but it promises to be most successful.

The duties of the holder of this position are to instruct and educate engineers, trainmen and other employees on signals and signal indications and the observance of them. Lectures will be given periodically at all the division points and at other places where automatic signals are in service or at which there are a number of interlocking plants.

A passenger car has been remodeled and fitted up for the use of the instructor, and its equipment includes a stereopticon, and also a "radiopticon," an instrument for projecting photographs and drawings without the necessity of having slides made for them. Pictures are to be taken of every indication and aspect which can be given or shown by the various types of signals at present in use on the road, and also by any signals the appearance or placing of which is out of the ordinary on account of local conditions or surroundings. The observance of switch signals and indicators, and train operation at interlocking plants will be carefully explained and illustrated in the lectures. The rules governing all signaling facilities will also be the subjects of frequent talks. C. G. Strecher, who has been supervisor on the terminal at Chicago, has been appointed signal instructor.

At the meeting of the Pennsylvania Safety first-workers where the officials of the road announced that it was, "by the employees, for the employees," there was inaugurated a movement to have a standard set of signals adopted for universal use. The idea of a signal has proven their efficiency and all leading roads are adopting them and a movement to standardize the system of signals would be essential to their success.

RAILROAD MEN WELCOME COMING OF WARM WEATHER

With the coming of the warm winds from the south the railroad men are hoping the cold weather has been put down and out. Railroaders in the summer time have a decided advantage over the work when the thermometer is below zero. Brakemen will find that crawling over freight cars is far better this kind of weather and that it is more like joy riding. Both railroads have experienced a most successful season having very little hardships to contend with. All freights have been heavily loaded and have went under summer rating the greater part of the year. There has been very little heavy snow to contend with and it has only been during the last storm that trains were delayed to any extent.

Passenger traffic has been unusually heavy and the Northwestern is carrying a greater amount of through passengers than any time in previous history. The Saint Paul is experiencing the most successful passenger traffic of the company's history, every passenger train has been well filled with local bound passengers. Freight business has also been heavy and an extra switch engine has been kept busy nearly all season.

Causes Much Disease

Advice about Stomach Troubles and how to relieve them.

Don't neglect indigestion, for it may lead to all sorts of ill and complications. An eminent physician once said that ninety-five per cent of all ill have their origin in a disordered stomach.

Our experience with Recall Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be one of the most dependable remedies known for indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. Rich in Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine, the relief they afford is very prompt. Used persistently and regularly for a short time, they tend to relieve pains caused by stomach disorders.

Recall Dyspepsia Tablets help insure healthy appetite, aid digestion, and promote nutrition. As evidence of our faith in them, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give entire satisfaction, we will return the money you paid us without question or formality. Three uses, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. You can buy Recall Dyspepsia Tablets in this community only at our store:

OLDER ODD FELLOW IS IN JANESVILLE

William Evenson of This City Senior Of Racine Lodge Member Who Died Yesterday.

Janesville Odd Fellows' dispute the statement made in an Associated Press dispatch yesterday that Thomas H. Marsland, who died at Burlington, was the oldest living Odd Fellow in Wisconsin, being eighty years of age. Gilbert Evenson, an Odd Fellow residing at 336 Milton Avenue, this city, is eighty-eight years of age and at Madison lives an Odd Fellow and Mason, David H. Wright, who has passed his ninety-third year. Mr. Wright frequently attends both lodges and is the oldest living Past Grand Master of Odd Fellows in the state. Janesville has in addition to Mr. Evenson other Odd Fellows who are past eighty years of age.

Like Many Another Baby.

Mary Louise's mother was hugging and kissing baby Ruth and said: "I could just eat her up." Immediately little three-year-old Mary Louise piped up, "No, you can't eat her up; she is so spick she isn't fit to eat."—Chicago Tribune.

TAILOR-MADE SUIT OF BLUE SERGE

Here is a smart, tailor-made suit of blue serge trimmed with magenta red beaver. This is used for the revers, cuffs and buttons. The side seams of the coat are rounded off over the hips and attached over pocket flaps. At the front these seams end in darts. The coat fastens with three buttons and the fronts are rounded off. The skirt has a side seam down the front and a wide panel at the back, making the skirt of the three-piece type.

HERE IS CHANCE TO TAKE EXAMINATION

Uncle Sam Wants Clerk and Carrier And Will Hold Examination For

Position in April.

Applicants for a position in Uncle Sam's postal service have an opportunity to try for a position at the coming examination for a clerk and carrier. The following is the official notice sent out:

An examination for clerk and carrier will be held at the postoffice in this city on April 12, 1913.

Age limit, 18 to 45 years, on the date of the examination. Married women will not be admitted to the examination. This prohibition, however, does not apply to women who are divorced or those who are separated from their husbands and support themselves, but they are eligible for appointment only as clerk.

Applicants must be physically sound and male applicants must not be less than 5 feet 4 inches in height without boots or shoes, and weigh not less than 125 pounds without overcoat or hat.

For application blanks and for full information relative to the examination, qualifications, duties, salaries, vacations, promotions, etc., address immediately Charles H. Patterson, Secretary, Board of Civil Service Examiners, Postoffice, Janesville, Wis.

CROWDS AT THEATRE SEE SPRING STYLES

Women Even Pack Into "Nigger Heaven" to Attend Pond & Bailey Spring Fashion Display.

Before eight o'clock last evening every available seat in the Myers theatre had been taken by the crowds intent on seeing the very latest in spring styles displayed on living models at the Pond & Bailey fashion show. When the lower floor and balcony were filled women packed into "nigger heaven" satisfied to get a glimpse from long distance range. Several scores, quite unfamiliar with the route to the top gallery, wandered into the Pikes' club rooms in their search and interrupted the champion pool game which was in progress there.

The exhibit of the very latest things in women's wearing apparel was most complete. The young ladies appearing in the gowns, suits, cloaks and hats displayed them to every possible advantage and were frequently and enthusiastically applauded. The orchestra furnished appropriate music throughout the show.

Those who appeared as models were: Mrs. H. Dunn, Mrs. J. Kemmet, and Misses Lorene Eller, Cora Holt, Florence Juttner, Madge McKean, Ethel Crowley, Nellie Weiss, Betty MacDonald, and little Misses Margaret Aller, Alice Barlow, Marjorie Earle and Lucile Craft.

This is the second event of the kind which has been given by Messrs. Pond and Bailey, their first show being a display of fall and winter styles last autumn. That this novel plan of showing the new goods to prospective customers meets popular approval is at once evidenced by the crowd, both men and women, which packed the theatre last evening.

PRIMA DONNA SCORNS SPANISH KING'S GIFT

King Alfonso of Spain, visiting a performance at Pau, in southern France recently, sent to the prima donna a bouquet. She returned it without comment. Alfonso, upon investigating, found that the woman was the daughter of Senora Ferrer, whom she unavailingly tried to save from execution for sedition in 1905. Subsequently, she had taken to the stage.

SURELY TAKE "SYRUP OF FIGS" IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED.

SWEETENS YOUR STOMACH, CLEARS YOUR HEAD AND THOROUGHLY CLEANS YOUR LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS OF SOUR BILE, FOUL GASES AND CLOGGED-UP WASTE.

All those days when you feel miserable, headachy, bilious and dull are due to torpid liver and sluggish bowels. The days when your stomach is sour and full of gas, when you have indigestion; the nights when your nerves twitch and you are restless and can't sleep could be avoided with a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Isn't it foolish to be distressed when there is such a pleasant way to overcome it?

Give your inactive liver and ten yards of waste-clogged bowels a thorough cleansing this time. Put an end to constipation.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909 by Geo. Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

The merchant shudders in his store, while bullets whiz around him, and no one ventures to his door, unless to kick or wound him. The farmer doesn't now prepare to do his springtime seeding, but sits and broods in dark despair, where Mexico lies bleeding. Some years ago the land was gay, a stretch of smiling acres; then Mexico became the prey of magazine muckrakers.

"Reform," the four-eyed MEXICO writers cried, "is what this land is needing;" they sprung a movement, nation wide, and Mexico lies bleeding. Old Diaz ruled with steady hand, and made the country blossom; he knew the people, knew the land, and knew just how to boss 'em. And he was wise and strong and fair, a man of sense and breeding; they tore the "tyrant" from his chair, and Mexico lies bleeding. The land is painted red with gore, man's folly advertising; from almost every cottage door a widow's wails are rising; we read about the deadly storm, and shudder as we're reading; they've had their spasm of reform, and Mexico is bleeding.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS

GERTRUDE STEVENS AYRES.

Care of the Child's Head.
Did you laugh when you read that a box of tooth-picks was a nursery necessity? I expected you would, unless you knew and appreciated their value in caring for the new baby.

A little sterile absorbent cotton rolled closely with the thumb and forefinger on to a tooth-pick, covering the end and about one inch of the wood is an extremely effective instrument in cleaning the nose, ears, and mouth of the infant. Care must be taken that the absorbent cotton is rolled hard enough to stay on the tooth-pick when in use, but a little practice will soon enable one to so roll it that it is impossible to pull off the cotton.

Nose and Mouth.

Use with these swabs a two per cent solution of boric acid. That is, to a bottle containing fifty teaspoonfuls of boiled water add one half of a flat teaspoonful of the boric acid powder and shake until thoroughly dissolved. Faithfulness on the part of the mother in keeping nose and mouth clean has two important results. It assures first, a healthy condition of the mucous membrane lining, nose and mouth, preventing the formation of the white coating often seen on the gums, cheeks and even the throats of infants, called "thrush" or "sprue." The second result is a habit forming. The child that has been accustomed for two years to have a clean nose is going to be very uncomfortable when mucous forms too quickly, and will demand means of caring for his own nose, thus eliminating one very objectionable condition of many little children.

A child trained to a regular cleansing of the mouth will allow the use of the tooth brush much earlier.

Ears.
A noted physician has said that the ears should never be cleaned with anything smaller than the thumb. This means that great care should be exercised in removing from the ear only such portions of the wax as have worked out into the outer ear. Nature has placed that bitter, sticky substance there to prevent the entrance of small foreign bodies, especially insects; and the child is in particular need of such protection.

The little swabs, before mentioned made larger than those to be used for cleansing the nose, do excellent work in the small crevices of the shell-like ear. You may be sure that the baby will appreciate the small instrument if it has been subjected to the discomfort of having this part of the cleansing process performed with the mother's finger.

Eyes.
Cleanse the eyes with small pieces of sterile absorbent cotton, moistened in case there is a little inflammation in one eye. For the same reason, turn the child so that the moisture will run toward the outer part of the eye.

This solution is the only one safe to use in the eyes of older children without a physician's order.

Use of Vaseline.
If there is inflammation great enough at any time to cause the eyelashes to stick together, apply a small amount of white vaseline from a tube, not a bottle. This same vaseline applied in the child's nostrils and on the outside of the nose often cures "the sniffles" resulting from slight cold. Thoroughly rubbed into the scalp of the young child before the bath, it prevents the formation of the yellowish brown, waxy coating so often seen upon the scalp of Spanish-speaking children it is an excellent hair tonic.

KEEPS HIM WARM
A newsboy is but thinly clad, but with determination, he tries to sell his papers and keep up the circulation.

YOUR COUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach wall such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, March 12, 1873.—Last night in the Mitchell block sixty-three good singers assembled at an early hour for the purpose of rehearsing for the Haymakers. At half past seven, Prof. J. W. Bischoff called the assembled singers to order, and with his usual skill, led the chorus through the opening portion of the cantata. Every part was well rendered. During the evening Gen. Bluff, John R. Bennett, W. Hollansbee, Annie Swift, Mattie Lovejoy, and Mrs. Wright delighted the listeners with their fine rendition of the beautiful selections from the Haymakers. The next rehearsal will be on Monday night March 17th in the parlors of the Baptist church. The orchestra will have their first rehearsal tomorrow evening.

The county board of supervisors met at the city clerk's office in the court house at two o'clock this afternoon, for the purpose of considering the subject of improving the county poor house. It is in session as we go to press.

The Chicago Times' Clinton correspondent reflects seriously of the doings of H. P. Lamphere of Clinton, who the correspondent says, has been quite demonstrative in his attentions to a fair one at Sharon and has got in court thereby. As Lamphere is only sixty years of age it seems as though the offense might be overlooked this time.

Court street hill has been unscientifically ditched by the spring flood. Somebody wants to go to the aldermen about it, but we don't suppose they can help it. Besides it is about time for the annual disposal of the city printing and we want to keep in with the municipal parents.

The gas burned dimly last night being badly affected by the severity of the past winter. Five feet below the surface the pipes are found frozen so badly that as to partially prevent the flow of gas.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTHA BELLINGER

CHAPTER XXIII.

Jimmy Muffa the Ball.

It will sometimes happen that young gentlemen, skipping confident, even under their lucky star, will get a fall. Fortune had been too constant to Jimmy not to be ready to turn her fickle face away the moment he wasn't looking. But such is the rashness born of success and a bounding heart, that young blood leaps to its doom, smiling, as it were, on the faithless lady's back.

Jimmy had no forebodings, but rioted gorgeously in returning health, in a whole pack of new emotions, and in what he supposed to be his lady's favor. Aleck, more philosophical, took his happiness with a more quiet gusto, not provoking the frown of the gods. But for Jim the day of reckoning was coming.

One day Aleck joined him, walking up and down the porch. Jim was in one of his boyish, cocksure moods.

"I know what you're going to do, say," he began, before Aleck could spring his news. "You're going to marry the princess."

"Just so," said Aleck. "How'd you know? Clairvoyance?"

"Nope."

"Well, you needn't look so high and mighty about it, old man. Why don't you do the same thing yourself? Then we'll have a double wedding."

"I've thought of that," said Jim.

As the two men talked, Agatha and Melanie, both dressed in white, strolled side by side down the garden path toward the wall. They were deep in conversation, their backs turned toward the veranda.

"I don't see that they look so much alike," announced Jim, who had but recently learned all the causes and effects of the Chateaufort business. Aleck's eyes gleamed.

"Which one, as they stand there now, do you take to be Miss Redmond?" he asked.

"One on the left," answered Jimmy promptly.

Aleck gave a signaling whistle which caused both the women quickly to turn. Agatha was on the right.

Aleck grinned broadly. "So that Yahoo of a Frenchman wasn't so stupid after all."

"I'd like to get my hands on him!" muttered Jim.

"Frenchman or not, there's going to be a wedding right here in the old red house on Wednesday," said Aleck.

"Hoopla! I knew that was it!"

"And then Melanie and I are going to cruise back to New York. Awfully sorry—but you're not invited."

"You couldn't get me aboard any gilded yacht that floats!"

At Jimmy's words—wholly untrue, by the way—Aleck's happy mood suddenly dimmed, as he thought of the dangers and anxieties of the past month. He turned and laid an arm, boy-fashion, over Jim's shoulder, pulling his hair as his hand went by.

"You're a fool of a kid!" he said, choking.

When Jim looked into his cousin's face, he knew. "Oh, I say, old man, it wasn't so bad as all that."

Aleck stiffened up. "Who said anything about its being bad? You'd better get some togs to wear at the wedding. I'm going to need these clothes myself."

It turned out, actually enough, that the wedding was to come off on a certain Wednesday in September.

"Would you like New York and a bishop and a big church better than the old red house and the Charlesport minister?" Aleck anxiously asked of Melanie.

"Oh, no," she protested; and Aleck knew she was sincere. So they prepared to terminate their holidays by celebrating the wedding in the pine grove. Melanie spent the intervening days happily with Agatha, or walking with Aleck, or with the delightful group that foregathered in Parson Thayer's library. Jimmy made extravagant and highly colored verses to the bride-to-be, to Sallie Kingsbury, and even to himself. His feet were often lame, but he solemnly assured the company that it was entirely due to circumstances over which he had no control. A wedding was a wedding, said he, and should have its bard; also its dancers and its minstrels.

"We'll have all our friends in Ilion, anyway," said Aleck. They counted up the list. Besides the occupants of the house and those from the Hillside, there would be Doctor Thayer, Susan Stoddard and Angie, Big and Little Simon, and the lawyer.

"And they're all going to dance with the bride," announced Jim. "After me. I'm first choice."

"A dance led, so to speak, by the elusive Monsieur Chateaufort?"

The name alone made Jimmy wroth. "It's a dance for which he will pay the fiddler yet!" he prophesied.

"Oh, he's gone this time. Scared out of the country for keeps!" was Aleck's expressed opinion. But that it might or might not be so, was what they all secretly thought.

The day before the wedding was a jewel of a day, such as New England at her best can fling into the lap of early autumn. A wind from the sea, flocks of white clouds scudding across the sapphire sky, and a sun all kindness—such was the day. It was never a "weather breeder" either; but steady, promising good for the morrow.

Many times during the week James and Chamberlain and Agatha had their heads together, planning surprises for the bridal pair. The result was that on Tuesday Jim and Chamberlain borrowed the white motor-car, loaded it down with a large variety of junk, such as food from Sallie's kitchen, flowers and so on, and started for Charlesport. They ran down to the wharf, transferred their loot to the rowboat, and pulled out to the Sea Gull, swinging at her mooring in deep water.

A half-hour of work, and the yacht was dressed for festival. There were strings of flags to stretch from bow to masthead and to stern; pennants for topmasts; the Stars and Stripes in beautiful silk for a standard, and a gorgeous banner with an embroidered A and M intertwined, for special occasions. Flowers were placed in the cabins, and food in the lockers. The seamen had been aboard, made the yacht clean and shipshape as a war vessel on parade, and had got permission to leave for their last night ashore. Everything was in readiness, even to the laying of the fire in the engine hold.

The bride and groom were to come aboard the next day about noon and cruise down the coast leisurely, as weather permitted. Hand, in charge of the white motor-car, with Madame Renier, Chamberlain, Agatha and Jimmy, were to start for New York, touring as long as their inclination lasted. The sophisticated Lizzie was to travel to what was, for her, the center of the universe, by the fastest Pullman.

Jimmy and Chamberlain, on the way home from their visit to the Sea Gull, came very near being confidential.

"I want to say, Mr. Hambleton, that I shall never forgive myself for bungling that Chateaufort business."

"As I understand the matter, it wasn't your bungling, but the sheriff's."

"It's all the same," conceded Mr. Chamberlain mournfully. "And in my opinion, the Frenchman's not done with his tricks yet. He's a dangerous character, Mr. Hambleton."

Jim laughed, remembering certain incidents on the Jeanne D'Arc.

"Do you know," Chamberlain continued, "I'm convinced the bloomin' beggar is hiding about here somewhere. I'm glad Aleck is getting away."

"I thought the evidence favored the theory that Chateaufort had made straight for New York."

"Not a bit of it. Aleck and I let you all believe that, for the sake of the ladies. But the evidence is all the other way. We would surely have caught him if he had been on any of the New York trains. I believe he's about here and means mischief yet."

"If he's about here, there's no doubt about the mischief."

"I'm going down tonight to bunk on the Sea Gull. Aleck let the men off, to go to a sailor's dance over on one of the islands. They'll probably be at it all night, so I'm going back."

"Why not let me go? I'm fine as a fiddle. You've had your full share of nasty detective work."

"Not at all. I'm booked to see this thing through."

"All right!" laughed Jimmy. "But if you change your mind, let me know."

Arriving at the house, the men found it deserted. Windows were open and doors unlatched, but no one, not even Danny, responded to Jim's call. Chamberlain started for the Hillside in the car, and Jim wandered about lonesomely, wondering where everybody was. With Jim, as in most cases, everybody meant one person; and presently, Sallie, appearing slowly from the upper regions, gave him his clue. He started nimbly for the pine wood.

The wagon road stretched alluringly into the sun-flecked shade of the grove. A hush like that of primeval day threw its uncanny influence over the world. Jim felt something tugging at his spirit that was unfamiliar, disquieting. He began to whistle just for company, and in a moment, as if at a signal call, Danny came along the path, sedately trotting to meet him.

"Hullo, old pardner! So this is where you are."

Danny said yes, and led Jim into the clearing and up to a pine stump, where everybody sat, quite alone, chin propped on hand. No singing, no book, and—or did Jimmy imagine it?—spirit decidedly quenched. Her eyes were red and her face was pale.

"So, dear lady, I have found you. But I was listening for the song."

"There is no song today," Agatha's manner resembled an Arctic breeze. "May one ask why?"

"One can not always be singing."

"No? Why not? I could—if I could."

Agatha was obliged to relax a trifle at Jimmy's foolishness, but only to reveal, more and more distinctly, a weariness of spirit that was quite baffling. It was not feminine wretchedness waiting for a masculine comfort, either, as James observed with regret; it was a stoical spirit, braced to meet a blow—or to deal one.

Jimmy was not used to being snubbed, and instinctively prepared for vigorous protest. He began with a little preliminary diplomacy.

"You haven't inquired what I'm going to do with the remainder of my holiday," he remarked.

"I supposed you would return soon to Lynn. Shall we walk back to the house?"

The unkind words were spoken in a rare-sweet voice, courteously enough. Jim looked at the speaker a moment, then emphatically said "No!"

"It is quite time I was returning."

"Have you anything there to do that is more important than listening to me for fifteen minutes?"

Agatha did not pretend not to understand him. She turned toward him with unfeeling eyes.

"Truth to say, yes, Mr. Hambleton, I have. I don't wish to listen to anything."

"Oh—if you feel like that! Your Mr. Hambleton is enough to strike me dumb."

"Believe me, it is the best way."

"Again, may one ask why?"

"You are going back to your own people, to your own work. And I to mine."

"But that's the very point. My idea was to—to combine them."

"I guessed it."

Jimmy smiled his ingenious smile as he suavely asked: "And don't you—er—like the idea?"

Agatha turned her wretched white face toward him. Into it there had come a grim determination that left Jimmy quite out in the cold.

"I have no choice in liking or disliking it," she said quite evenly. "But there are plenty of reasons why I can't think of it. And you shouldn't think of it any more. I assure you, you are making a mistake."

She got up as if ready to walk away, her face averted.

"Agatha!"

At the name she turned to Jim, as much as to say she would be quite reasonable if he would be. But her face suddenly flashed gloriously.

"Agatha, dear, hear me. I did not intend to tell you all my secret to-day; not until I should be on neutral ground, so to speak. But I can't let you leave me this way."

"You will have to let me know how to the house."

Up to this point, James had merely been playing tag, as it were. The game wasn't really on. A little skirmishing on either side was in order. But Agatha's last words were the call to action. They roused the ghost of some old Hambleton ancestor who meant not to be beaten. Jim squared himself in the middle of the path, touched Agatha's shoulder with the lightest, most respectful finger, and requested: "But I would ask you, as a special favor, to stay a few minutes longer."

Jim's tone left Agatha no choice. She sat down again on the pine stump, but she could not meet Jimmy's eyes. He stood a few feet away from her. When he spoke, his voice was firm and steady, ringing with earnestness. There was no doubt now but that he was in the game for all he was worth.

"Agatha, you shall not turn me down like this. Wait until you know me better, and know yourself better. You've had no time to think this matter over, and it involves a good deal, I admit. But we have lived through a good deal together in these few weeks. I'm here; I'm here to stay. You can't say now, dear, that you care nothing for me, can you?"

"What is the use of all this, I ask! You will always be my friend, my rescuer, to whom I am eternally grateful."

Jimmy emitted a sound halfway between "Shucks" and "Damn" and swung impatiently clean round on his heels.

"Grateful be hanged! I don't want anybody to be grateful. I want you to love me—to marry me. Why, Agatha, he argued boyishly, his hopes rising as he saw her face soften a little, 'you're mine, for I plucked you out of the sea. I had to have you. I guess I knew it that Sunday, only it was 'way off, somewhere in the back of my brain. You're a dream I've always loved, just as this old house is. You're the woman I could have prayed for. I'll do, I'll be, anything you wish; I'll change myself over, but oh, don't say you won't have me. Agatha, Agatha, you don't know how much you mean to me!"

MARCH 12

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Avoid law and disputes. You will regret time spent in wrangling, for something really important needs your attention. New schemes are doubtful for you.

Those born today will be somewhat influenced by the planet Mars and will have strong, but quarrelsome natures. They should be taught that the really strong are they that rule themselves, and that such can afford to tolerate the weakness and faults of others.

"He took her in his strong young arms."

And strode across the glen. And when he reached the Sunset Farms

He put her down again."

A compassionate crowd soon gathered and formed a ring about the little girl.

"There, there!" soothed a kindly old gentleman. "Tell us what's the matter, and maybe we can help you."

But the child screamed on. She was in a white frock of tessellated muslin, with a Captain Hook collar. Her hair was done in a Newcombe.

"I never heard a child take on so," commented one woman. "Poor dear, something serious must be the matter."

And the compassionate crowd crowded forward as one compass with expressions of sympathy and offers of succor.

But the child screamed on. It was not until the little girl began passing around her hat that the crowd realized she had been stinging.

Pimpily? Well Don't Be!

People Notice It. Drive Them off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel—they oil the bowels; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

Mistaken Diagnosis--Doctors Guess Wrong Again.

About five years ago I wrote to you that I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try your Swamp-Root as a last resort, and after taking four fifty-cent size bottles, I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. Have had no return of any trouble since that time and cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful preparation, Swamp-Root, which cures, after physicians fail.

Very truly yours, F. H. HORNE, Route 3, Box 30, Roseboro, N. C.

Personally appeared before me this 31st day of July, 1909, F. H. Horne, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact. James M. Hall, Notary Public.

Brilliance of French Wit.

It was Count Montrond who said to Alexandre Girardin of a young man who was beginning to make a brilliant reputation, and whom Girardin did not appreciate: "Hasten to recognize him, or he will not recognize you." His valet waited on him one morning most unsuccessfully. He could find none of the toilet articles. Montrond handed them to him remarking: "You must admit that you are lucky to have me here. Without me, you certainly could not wait upon me."

Ask Your Doctor.

I Will Stake This Medicine Against Your Time

A Few Days Will Be Sufficient to Prove That You Are Curable

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric Acid poison from the system and by so doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble and rheumatism. I don't ask you to take my word for it, but simply want you to let me asked you some of the things, and the only way you can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of compounding the medicine and sending it out free of charge. This I am willing to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a so-called sample proof or test treatment, nor will I send you a package of medicine and say that you can use some of it and pay for the rest, but I will send you a supply free of charge and you will not be asked to pay for this supply; nor will you be under any obligations.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is indicated, as it is not a "cure-all," and I give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine, and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will write me the number of the symptoms or a description in your own words, and that you take the medicine according to the directions I send you. It is my way of getting publicity for my medicine so that it will become widely known.

You will agree when you have used it that it dissolves and drives out uric acid poison. It tones the kidneys so that they work in harmony with the bladder. It strengthens the bladder so that frequent desire to urinate and other urinary disorders are banished. It stops rheumatic aches and pains immediately. It dissolves uric acid crystals so that back and muscles no longer ache and crooked joints quickly straighten out. It recovers the blood and nerves so that you soon feel healthier and more vigorous, sleep better and eat better and have energy throughout the day. It does all this and yet contains nothing injurious and is absolutely vouched for according to the directions I send you.

Sufferers from these dreadful and dangerous diseases can surely afford to spend a few minutes each day for a few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction if they are curable, especially when you consider no expense is involved, and, willingly, give you my time and my medicine. All any afflicted person wants to know is if a certain thing will cure him or her, and here is an opportunity to find out without cost, obligation or important loss of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life.

All who are interested enough to write me for the free medicine will also receive a copy of my large illustrated medical book which describes these diseases thoroughly. It is the largest book of the kind ever written for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed. I will also write you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that should be of great help to you, but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promises. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

These Are the Symptoms:

1-Pain in the back.

2-Frequent desire to urinate.

3-Burning or obstruction of urine.

4-Pain or soreness to the bladder.

5-Gravel or stones in the bladder.

6-Gravel or stones in the stomach.

7-General debility, weakness, dizziness.

8-Pain or soreness under right rib.

9-Swelling in any part of the body.

10-Constipation or liver trouble.

11-Patitation or pain under the heart.

12-Pain in the hip joint.

13-Pain in the neck or head.

14-Pain or soreness in the kidneys.

15-Pain or swelling of the joints.

16-Pain or swelling of the muscles.

17-Pain and soreness in nerves.

18-Acute or chronic rheumatism.

DRUG FIENDS ANNOY DRUGGISTS OF CITY

More Seen in Last Six Months Than in Years Past—All Are Transients With Few Exceptions.

More drug fiends have been seen in Janesville in the last six months than in many years past, according to a proprietor of one of the local drug stores. Almost without exception they are transients and strangers, and an alarming large portion of them are young men from eighteen to twenty-six years of age. Most of them are cocaine users, known among themselves as "sleigh-riders" from the fact that the pure white crystals of the drug are called "sne." A seasoned devotee of "sne" is said to be "on the toboggan."

Morphine fiends are not so noticeable as "sleigh-riders," but they are no less insistent in their demand for the soothing drug when the craving comes over them, and at times they are exceedingly annoying to the drug clerks. A strange circumstance noted by one of the Janesville pharmacists is that the users of morphine and cocaine almost always attempt to buy it on Saturday night at a late hour, when there are apt to be no customers in the drug store. The druggists can usually tell the victims of the habit on sight and refuse point-blank to sell them even the smallest quantity of the drug. It is very rarely the case that they can persuade a physician to give them a prescription, and even then there have been instances when the druggists would not make the sale, thinking the physician had been deceived or exercised poor judgment.

When a "sleigh-rider" cannot obtain cocaine he usually asks for heroin, a derivative of morphine, but a less powerful drug. Most cocaine fiends have first been addicted to morphine, though there are exceptions. The "sleigh-rider" is apt to be more vicious and criminally inclined than the mere "dope fiend." All are profuse with excuses why they need the drug, making great promises, pitiful appeals, and even threats when denied it.

One came into a drug store in this city about three weeks ago and asked to buy cocaine. When refused he demanded heroin, and this being denied he laid a two-dollar bill upon the counter and told the clerk he could keep the change if he would grant him his request. The retail cost of the dose was about five cents, but the "sleigh-rider" went away unsatisfied.

It is needless to say that no conditions approaching those revealed in Milwaukee exist in this city. There, through confessions of several people it has been learned that cocaine "sniffs" have been passed around at dances like beer, or ice cream. Men have been arrested for peddling the "sniff" from inhaling tubes at so much an inhalation and it is claimed that boys and girls in their teens have acquired and are indulging in the use of cocaine to a startling extent.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Mr. Editor:

A few days since, I handed you what looked like a pretty tough fish story,—taking over seventy-five thousand pounds of fish from under the ice at one haul, near Prairie du Chien—but I can assure you that those are facts, and the same is happening along our Mississippi border, every spring and fall—more especially in the spring, in a greater or less degree. Should such things be? Can our western waters stand such drains? These large hauls are made only, by the lucky few. Those fish are shipped out of the state, by the car loads, and the people of the state, who own those fish are receiving little or no benefit, while our western waters are steadily, but surely, being depleted of one of our best food products. Is it not time that something should be done to call a halt on this wholesale robbery? It is conceded that the game of a state, including the fish of its waters—belong to the people of the state, then why not the people of the state have equal benefit to the property they own. The wholesale slaughter of game on land is regulated, and strictly forbidden. Why should not the taking of fish from our waters be more equitably regulated in the interests of all of the people. Why allow seignioring under the ice, when the fish are massed in their winter quarters in such a manner that they may be captured by the carload? It is not a sportsman-like way to capture game. It is not equitable. It is not just. There is not a redeeming feature about the operation, except it be from the viewpoint of the one who pockets the dollars. I hope that these few lines may fall under the notice of each and everyone of our lawmakers now in Madison.

MILTON

Milton, March 12.—The funeral services of Mrs. Samuel Pierce, whose remains were brought here from Chicago for burial, were held at the Seventh-day Baptist church yesterday at 10 a. m. President William C. Daland officiating, and interment made at Milton Junction.

Rev. J. N. Anderson of Washington, D. C., came here to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Pierce.

Howard Davy has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Davy. Born, March 7, to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Saunders of Watertown, a daughter. Milton friends congratulate them.

Rev. M. A. Drew was at Madison yesterday.

Mrs. Helen Williams is visiting in Janesville.

A. M. Van Horn spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

Miss Verna Miller of Rockford, Ill., is visiting at M. C. Whitford's.

Martha and Elsie Lempe of Edgerton have been visiting at H. C. Risgou's.

DINNER STORIES

There were two suitors for Miss Murphy's hand. One was a grocer named O'Flaherty, whom her father and mother strongly urged her to marry, and the other was a saloon-keeper named Finnegan. Mary herself favored the latter, and in the end married him. One day when she was settled in her new home she visited her parents and showed them a new gold watch her husband had given her.

"Ah," said the mother, disapprovingly; "if you took my advice and your father's advice, Mary Ann, 'tisn't a gold watch you'd be having in your pocket, but a good eight-day clock."

A Chicago politician imported his cousin from the old country and had him appointed a smoke inspector. This was in the old days. He was turned loose to inspect without any instructions whatever, and this is the report he rendered at the end of the first month:

"I certify that I have inspected the smoke of this city for 30 days past. I find plenty of smoke and apparently of good quality. Respectfully submitted."

The other Sunday evening, when church service was over, a young minister started on his journey home, accompanied by two young ladies of the choir, when they began a conversation about hymns.

"What is your favorite hymn?" asked the curate, turning to one of his fair companions.

"Draw me nearer," she replied, not thinking of the double meaning.

At that moment her companion, who was walking on the other side of the curate, to make matters worse, said, innocently:

"That is only the chorus; the commencement of the verse is, 'I am thine.'"

At this the curate laughed heartily, and the ladies are always very careful now when talking about hymns.

DEBATERS TO MEET RACINE NEXT WEEK

Honors in Beloit College League Will Be Decided in Janesville-Racine Events Next Tuesday.

One week from yesterday afternoon, the local high school debaters will battle with the two teams from the Racine high school for the championship of Illinois and Wisconsin members of the Beloit College League. The meetings between these two schools, are the finals, and the winners will be recognized champions. A large cup will be awarded for first place in addition to the gold medals presented to each individual debater.

For second place, a smaller cup will be awarded together with individual silver medals. The locals have been spending much of their time in preparation, and they feel quite confident that they can defeat the two strong Racine teams.

The debates will take place in the afternoon, and the local affirmative team, will journey to Racine to meet the Racine negative team at two-thirty in the afternoon, while the local negative team will debate the Racine affirmative team in Beloit at the College chapel.

It is expected that a large crowd from Janesville will accompany the team to Beloit, to support the locals. The question will be the same as has been debated all year, and is as follows: "Resolved, that in the interest of world peace, the United States begin to diminish its proportional naval expenditures." The local negatives have changed their line of argument a little, and also their rebuttal, thinking a stronger attack has been made.

The teams which will debate are as follows: The Janesville affirmative composed of Stanley Judd, leader; Ben Kuhlman and Harold Mohr, will meet the Racine negative at Racine, composed of John Fervoy, leader, Alva Haumerson and Lewis Baumblatt. The local negative team composed of Allen Dearborn, leader, Russell Smiley and Charles Noyes, will oppose at Beloit the Racine affirmative team composed of Hardy Steinhilber, leader, Elmer Miller and Russell Frank.

In a talk to the students Monday morning at the high school, Prof. Bnell stated that the locals must defeat Racine in debate, and bring home the honors. He stated that last year's defeat came in the semi-finals, but in the final event this year Janesville has a chance to make a big sweep.

Light and Speed.

Many a young man today burns the midnight gasoline that his old dad burned the midnight oil to pay for.—Florida Times-Union.

Work, or You're Nobody.
A young Englishman who came to this country to enter business wrote to his father that he was making good in his work, and that America was a remarkably bustling and progressive place. "You simply must work or you're not in it," he wrote. "You must be busy, if you want to win out. It doesn't matter so much what you work at, but you must work."

Unkindest Cut of All.

Best Known Cough Remedy.

For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will get rid of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c and $1.00 at People's Drug Store.

Hanging Shades.

When buying window shades get an extra set of catches. Put one set at the usual place, the other about a foot lower. In cold weather hang the shades on the lower catches and leave the window down from the top. This gives perfect ventilation and prevents the shade from blowing about.
